

THE ALUMNAE NEWS

WOMAN'S COLLEGE OF THE
UNIVERSITY OF NORTH CAROLINA

33
m3
FEBRUARY 1945

THE ALUMNAE NEWS

Published Four Times a Year: July, November, February and April, by the Alumnae and Former Students Association, Incorporated, of the Woman's College of the University of North Carolina, Greensboro.

MEMBER OF AMERICAN ALUMNI COUNCIL

CLARA BOOTH BYRD, Editor

OFFICERS AND TRUSTEES OF THE ALUMNAE ASSOCIATION

President: Julia Lambert (Mrs. W. L.)

First Vice President: Ione Grogan

Second Vice President: Adelaide VanNoppen Howard (Mrs. George)

Recording Secretary: Annie Moring Alexander (Mrs. Kemp)

Executive Secretary: Clara B. Byrd

Board of Trustees: Anne Albright, Janet Weil Bluthenthal (Mrs. Herbert), Gertrude Carraway, Elizabeth Hathaway, Louise Bell, Gertrude Rainey Creede (Mrs. T. B.), Phyllis Crooks Coltrane (Mrs. L. D. III), Sadie McBrayer McCain (Mrs. P. P.), Ellen Butler.

Vol. XXXIII

FEBRUARY, 1945

No. 3

CONTENTS

	PAGE
UP AND DOWN THE AVENUE	1
SECOND TO NONE	2
THE DEPARTMENT OF PHYSICS AT WOMAN'S COLLEGE Dr. Anna Joyce Rearden	5
MRS. LAMBERT HONORS DEAN AND MRS. JACKSON	6
IN MEMORY OF MRS. McIVER	7
NEWS FROM THE ALUMNAE	7
ALUMNAE IN THE ARMED FORCES	9-11-13-15-17-19
MARRIED	21
NITCROLOGY	25

Patronize Our Advertisers

	Page
Vicks	18
Montaldo's	20
Jos. J. Stone & Co.	20
Charles Stores	21
The Book Shop	22
Ellis Stone & Co.	22
Odell Hardware Co.	22
Wills Book & Stationery Co.	22
Brooks-Wilson Co.	22
Phil R. Crelton, Inc.	23
Real Estate, Insurance, etc.	23
Woolworth's	23
Sears Roebuck & Co.	23
Yellow Taxi Co.	23
E. A. Woodell—Printing	23
The Grill—Eats	23
Manuel's Restaurant	24
Silver's—5c-10c-$1.00	24
Columbia Laundry	24
Blue Bird Taxi	24
Sills—Shoes	24
Greensboro Nehi Bottling Co.	25
Royal Crown Cola	25
Victory Theatre	25
The Mecca—Restaurant	25
Greensboro Bowling Center	25
Belk's Department Store	Back Cover
Kearns Paint Co.	Back Cover
Mock, Judson, Voehringer—Hosiery	Back Cover
Montgomery Ward	Back Cover
Southern Dairies	Back Cover

❖ UP and DOWN the Avenue ❖

❖ Enrollment at this writing, according to figures released from the Registrar's Office, is 2175. Of this number 275 are registered from twenty states other than North Carolina. The number of out of state students is slightly reduced this year, largely in order to accept a few additional North Carolina girls. However, the secretary of admissions states that a high percentage of these out of state students have a root-age in North Carolina. Perhaps the family lived here originally, or an aunt received her college education in the state, or close relatives make their home here now. It is not easy to rub all the tar off the heels of the Tar Heels. Ninety-six of the 100 counties in the state are represented in the student body. Six counties lead: Guilford, the home county, with 357; Mecklenburg, with 92; Wake, with 81; Forsyth, with 72; Buncombe, with 71; and New Hanover, with 47. Five Latin-American countries also have representatives.

❖ The Woman's College Chapter of the United Daughters of the Confederacy is the first chapter to be organized in a college in the state. It is composed of students, with Eleanor Johnson '45, Pittsboro, as president. The chapter was organized in February, 1943, and is affiliated with the Guilford Chapter of the UDC.

❖ Included in the Civic Music Concert series for the remainder of the year are concerts by Lottie Lehmann, soprano, of the Metropolitan Opera Company, New York City, who will appear in Aycock Auditorium on February 2; the New York City Opera Company, which will perform "The Gypsy Baron," by Strauss, February 15; and the Cleveland Symphony Orchestra, March 20.

❖ Comprehensive examinations were abolished by vote of the faculty at its December meeting, following a trial period of five years. However, the co-ordinating courses in each major field of study are to be continued or abandoned, as the respective departments may decide.

❖ The Second Annual Arts Forum, in which the Departments of Art, English, Music, and Physical Education are collaborating, will take place on the campus February 23-24. Alumnae House will be headquarters for registration. The general purpose of the Forum is to stimulate interest in the Arts in this region. Because of travel restrictions, and other war conditions, the programs have necessarily been planned primarily for students. Several distinguished headliners in these creative fields will be here as featured speakers on the Forum.

❖ In connection with the Arts Forum, Play-Likers will present Edna St. Vincent Millay's play, "The Princess and the Page," in three different ways, with three different casts, three different sets of scenery, and with each presentation costumed according to the period. The purpose of this tri-performance is to illustrate the traditional way of presenting a play, and two experimental methods.

❖ The Woman's College Section of the Alpha Chapter of North Carolina of Phi Beta Kappa was installed on December 12, 1934. The tenth anniversary of the installation will be celebrated this spring with appropriate exercises and ceremonies.

❖ The Art Department has sponsored a number of distinguished exhibitions this year—etchings by Goya; lithographs by Daumier; paintings from Latin-American artists, including all the important men—Rivera, Orozco, Portinari, Siquieros; drawings by Picasso, Matisse, Rodin, Rivera, and all the other outstanding names in contemporary art. Other showings for the spring include an exhibition in connection with the Arts Forum, in two classifications—an educational exhibit entitled, "What Is Modern Painting?"; and a student exhibit, showing tradition and experiment as they find expression in the art classes at Woman's College. In April another interesting event will be the one-man show by John Oppen, an addition to the art faculty this year. All exhibitions will be hung in Weatherspoon Gallery. The Art Department has had an almost unparalleled growth since it was organized here ten years ago. The enrollment this year is larger than ever before, and includes an unusually high proportion of talented and promising students.

1. "On the Sidewalks of Woman's College"
2. "By the Waters of the College Lake"
3. "When Away to Bed I Creep"

"Second to None"

Budget Request of the 1945 General Assembly for the Maintenance and Expansion of the Woman's College of the University of North Carolina

Since the accompanying article was written, the Advisory Budget Commission has made its report to the General Assembly of North Carolina, which convened on January 3. We are happy to report that this commission recommended complete equalization of salaries in the three units of the University. The recommendation of the Commission with regard to several other items contained in the request of Woman's College for support and maintenance was not so gratifying, but we have reason to believe that these differences will be satisfactorily adjusted.

Hearings on the budget requests of state institutions have also been held by the Joint Appropriations Committee of the House and Senate. The request of this College for support and maintenance was presented by Dr. Jackson when the hearing on the budget request of the whole university was held. All told, we feel encouraged about the outcome.

As stated in the article, all state institutions submitted to the Advisory Budget Commission, as a second division of their budget request, a list of buildings and other equipment needed for permanent improvement and expansion. These requests are not being considered by this session of the Legislature, because of war priorities and other reasons. But valuable and absolutely essential ground work has been done by the alumnae and friends of the College in placing before the members of the Legislature, and before the whole state, our needs in this category.

As the alumnae understand, after the Advisory Budget Commission has made a report, and the Joint Appropriations Committee has held its hearings and made a report, the whole matter of appropriations will then be carried to the Legislature as a whole, and the final word will not be said until this vote has been taken.

"Three institutions — equal in the prestige of their faculties and in the adequacy of their facilities and equipment" — such is the foundation upon which the consolidated University of North Carolina is understood to rest. If any part of this platform is not evenly built up, or is allowed to lapse, the whole structure is threatened. Moreover, the Plan of Consolidation specifically states: "So, let us build for North Carolina girls, as a unit of the Consolidated University, a college of arts and sciences, second to none."

In keeping with these guiding principles, which clearly guarantee to Woman's College the highest possible developments, certain appropriations are being requested of the 1945 Legislature.

Be it said in the beginning that Woman's College, and the alumnae of Woman's College, are wholeheartedly supporting the three-institution program of progress which is being presented by the President and the Controller of the University, and the Deans of Administration of the three component units. But in addition, the alumnae of Woman's College wish to speak, urgently and specifically, for their own college.

First in importance in the budget request of Woman's College is complete equalization of salaries paid to members of the faculty at Woman's College with those paid to members of the faculty at the University of North Carolina, Chapel Hill, and at State College, Raleigh. Wide disparity has existed in the past. During recent years these disparities have been lessened to the point where equalization is now approaching. It is confidently believed that the 1945 Legislature will put into full effect the just principle of equal pay for equal work, regardless of whether that work is done by a man or a woman, at Chapel Hill, State, or Woman's College.

The quality of the faculty is basic in the development of a great educational institution. It is not possible to retain — or to build — a top-ranking faculty at Woman's College, or at Chapel Hill or State for that matter, unless teaching is regarded as a highly competitive profession — and it is now just that — and paid accordingly.

Budget Request for Maintenance and Operation for the Next Biennium

For 1945-1946 $740,715

For 1946-1947 641,000 $1,381,715

The appropriation upon which Woman's College is operating this current year is $476,458. The increase requested over this amount for the next biennium will be used largely to complete the equalization of salaries, as mentioned; to retain outstanding members of the faculty, and to secure distinguished additions; to provide for promotions, and for those members of the faculty who will return from military leave.

Budget Request for Permanent Improvements Needed Now—$1,821,500

The Woman's College has an excellent plant — some forty buildings, valued at more than seven million dollars (including grounds), set in the midst of much natural beauty. Approximately 2250 students are enrolled here, making the Woman's College the second largest "resident college for women" in the United States. The campus population, all told, is approximately 3200 — including, in addition to the student body, the faculty, students in Curry School, and workers on the grounds, in the buildings, in the kitchen, and on the farm. Old buildings, sufficient in their day, when the campus population was much smaller, imperatively require enlargement and modern equipment, or renovation; and additional new buildings are a necessity. In order therefore to equalize also the facilities and equipment at Woman's College with those of the other two units of the University, a request for appropriations for the enlargement and improvement of the physical plant is being presented to the 1945 Legislature as a present and immediate must requirement.

A NEW LIBRARY — $400,000. The heart of the academic life of a college campus is the library. The present library was planned for a student body of 1285. This building is overcrowded and cannot be expanded.

STUDENT UNION BUILDING — $181,500. In order that the policy of fusing the social and academic life of the students into happy and integrated daily experience may have full opportunity for expression, the Woman's College urgently needs a student union center. Such a building will include a large hall for dancing, game rooms for casual entertaining, a grill where students may enjoy wholesome food and pleasant contacts—in other words, a large informal recreation center. It will take the place, in a way, and on a much more extensive scale, of the Hut, which has contributed much to campus life during the past twenty-five years.

A NEW HOSPITAL OR INFIRMARY—$200,000. The present infirmary has served the College well. But it was erected in 1912, when the student body numbered 600. Plans for the new infirmary include modern apparatus for diagnosis and treatment, as well as such features as a diet kitchen—in keeping with the beautifully equipped new hospitals now a part of the campus of Chapel Hill and of State.

ENLARGEMENT OF THE PRESENT PHYSICAL EDUCATION BUILDING—$350,000. The present physical education building has also served the College well. It was erected in 1923, to accommodate a maximum of 1600 students. The war has brought sharply to general attention the necessity for physical fitness in women. New emphasis is also being placed on the need for every young woman in college to have regular physical training. These considerations, together with the present size of the student body, require that this building be expanded immediately.

OTHER IMMEDIATE NEEDS—$490,000. Last, but not least in importance, a new laundry, another classroom building, and the renovation of both Woman's Hall and Kirkland Hall, are on the must list.

EQUIPMENT FOR THESE BUILDINGS—$200,000.

The very appearance of the present laundry—ramshackle and out at the elbows, but dominating the Walker Avenue entrance to the campus on the east, is sufficient and conclusive argument that it should be removed and replaced by another building in some other part of the campus. But if anything further need be said, this little building was put up more than 40 years ago, when the student body was less than 500. When the expansion program of the College was presented to the students at a mass meeting in Aycock Auditorium, they were intensely interested in every item, but when a new laundry was mentioned—there was spontaneous and fervent applause! Let's give Mr. Sink a new laundry, which will also house in a central place the now widely separated carpenter shop, paint shop, plumbing and electrical repair shop, and general storage rooms. One and all—three cheers for a nice new laundry building!

ADMINISTRATION BUILDING

"LITTLE GUILFORD" (OLD INFIRMARY), HOME OF THE DEPARTMENT OF PUBLIC RELATIONS

Woman's Hall and Kirkland Hall are not fireproof—they need to be made so; and they also need to be further renovated. The music building has been overcrowded for years—not quite to the point of seeing students hanging out of doors and windows; but more space is seriously needed, together with a better arrangement of facilities.

Additional Budget Request for Permanent Improvements If the Student Enrollment is Increased—$935,000

The College administration believes that 250 students may be safely added to the present enrollment within the next few years. Such a provision would considerably relieve the pressure for admission. If this increase is made, automatically increasing also the size of the faculty and the whole campus population, the following buildings will be a necessity:

Two Residence Halls	$360,000
Dining Hall and Kitchen	150,000
Addition to Science Building	100,000
Addition to Home
Economics Building	200,000

Residence for Dean of Women	25,000
Equipment	100,000

In addition, funds are being raised from private sources for a non-denominational Chapel.

The total budget request for new buildings and improvements, for immediate needs and future expansion, totals $2,756,500.

It is the consensus of opinion that the 1945 Legislature, faced with demands from all state institutions for extensive appropriations for expansion, will not allot any funds for buildings until after the war is over. But it is highly urgent that ground work be done now and that the public be made conscious of the needs at the State's college for women.

Woman's College has been modestly waiting its turn. We feel that our turn has now come. We are proud of the position of the Woman's College in the academic world. But no institution is static. It can stand at the top of the peak today, but if it does not progress, it can be a secondary institution tomorrow. It is our purpose to guard Woman's College, to battle for its continuing development, so that it may continually fulfill its destiny of SECOND TO NONE.

A Special Alumnae Legislative Committee

To these ends, and with these goals in mind, a special Alumnae Legislative Committee was appointed to present the claims of the Woman's College to the members of the State Legislature. Mrs. P. P. McCain is chairman. Serving with her are Mrs. W. T. Bost, vice chairman; Mrs. Ed M. Anderson, Miss Emily Austin, Mrs. Kemp Battle, Mrs. Herbert Bluethenthal, Miss Gertrude Carraway, Mrs. Julius W. Cone, Mrs. W. L. Lambert, Mrs. Weaver Mann, Mrs. C. S. Morris, Mrs. Don Shoemaker, Mrs. C. W. Tillett. This committee has been at work since the middle of December. One of their first steps was to assign a certain number of counties to each member of the committee, who, in turn, appointed a chairman in each of the counties in her assignment, to press the work of the committee.

It is a thrilling job, and one both large enough and important enough for every alumna to have a part in its accomplishment. With the facts before you, we depend upon every alumna to use her influence in behalf of the Woman's College in her own community, and with her representatives in the General Assembly.

The Department of Physics at Woman's College

by Dr. Anna Joyce Rearden
Acting Head of the Department

By an act of the General Assembly of 1891 the now Woman's College of the University of North Carolina was established.

The original curriculum, as outlined in the first catalogue, included a Department of Science, which offered general courses in Physical Geography, Botany, Chemistry, Physics, Zoology, and Geology. It is interesting to note here that Physics was a required subject, in the junior year, for all students taking either the Regular Course or the one which paid special attention to Domestic Science. This course, which had to be preceded by a year of Chemistry, stressed the deduction of general principles of Physics rather than the attainment of exactness in measurements or laboratory methods.

The first annual catalogue lists Mary M. Petty as the teacher of Chemistry and Physics, Dixie Lee Bryant, Natural Science, and Minnie A. Hampton, assistant in Science. In 1899 the Department of Science was divided into two sections: Biology and Geology; Chemistry and Physics. The following year Chemistry and Physics were listed separately for the first time. However, Miss Petty continued in the capacity of teacher of both subjects until 1902, when William C. A. Hammel joined the faculty as a teacher of Physics and Manual Training. A post-graduate course was offered this year for those who desired more advanced work in Physics.

Later, in 1910, three years after the Department had been moved into new quarters in Melver Building, a course in Physics for Home Economics students was introduced. The same year an Elementary Physics Teachers' Course was given in the summer session. This was a unique class. The students were either Physics teachers or teachers-to-be in rural schools where little or no apparatus was available. The purpose of this course was to illustrate the important laws by using simple, inexpensive apparatus constructed in the laboratory by the student. This apparatus became the property of the student and thus formed a nucleus for her school laboratory.

Clarence W. Hewlett, Ph.D., replaced Mr. Hammel in 1916, and he was succeeded by William T. Wright in 1919. By this time, more advanced courses in Mechanics, Optics, Electricity, Magnetism, and Heat had been added to the curriculum. The next ten years found Robert Elliott Preston, Norman Baird Foster, Ph.D., John Calvin Pomeroy, and J. Chester Littlefield serving the department in various capacities.

In 1929 Calvin N. Warfield, Ph.D., became the head of the department. He, with John A. Tiedeman, Ph.D., who came in 1931, introduced more experimental work into the curriculum. At the time of consolidation, in 1932, due to the intensive work of these two men, the Woman's College had as broad and complete a Physics curriculum as could be found in any college in this country. A course in X-ray technique was introduced in 1933 to aid in broadening the work done in medical technology and to assist the Infirmary with its Health Program. When Photography became popular as a hobby for the everyday man, a class, which soon grew into a year course, was organized. This class has attracted many students who otherwise might not take Physics in any form. Consequently, it has a great value as an introduction to applied Physics.

Shortly after the beginning of World War II, John Tiedeman was called to teach Physics at the U. S. Naval Academy at Annapolis, Maryland, and a little later Calvin Warfield went to the National Advisory Committee for Aeronautics at Langley Field, to do research. It was then that I became associated with the Woman's College and was appointed Acting Head of the department. The present teaching staff, other than myself, includes Miss Cerda Donovan, M.S., and Miss Abbie Fay Henry, A.B. Miss Henry is an alumna of Woman's College and has charge of the X-ray division. We three are trying to carry on the tradition of the Physics Department which has been established by our predecessors, namely, service to the institution as a whole in addition to our instructional duties.

We are very happy to note at this time that the enrollment in the general physics course has doubled in the past three years. We had only one major, Sarah Culpepper, during this period; but an increasing number of Chemistry and Mathematics students, recognizing the value of Physics, have come back for advanced work. In fact, every course listed in the Physics curriculum, with the exception of two, has been taught within the past two years. The cycle is being repeated this year. We now have three majors, all Juniors, and the prospects for more in the future are very bright.

The Physics Department has occupied the major portion of the first floor of the new Science Building since the opening in 1940. These new quarters contain a large general laboratory and three small special purpose laboratories: one for mechanics, heat and sound; one for magnetism, electricity, and modern physics; and another for optics. In addition, there is a suite of rooms containing a studio, four dark-rooms, chemical room, and storage space for Photography. Another suite of five rooms is used for X-ray. Three lecture rooms of various sizes are well equipped for demonstration lectures. The largest of these rooms seats 165 students and is equipped with facilities for showing 16 mm. motion pictures. A Foucault pendulum is housed in a shaft located in one corner which passes from the floor to the roof of the building. A recording dial, which is located on one of the walls of the room, is connected directly with the anemometer and wind vane mounted on the roof, together with the other meteorological instruments. This course in Meteorology was introduced in 1941 in answer to a war demand. A room on the fourth floor is available for experiments requiring sunlight, and a small observatory on the roof is used for astronomical observations. Each laboratory and two of the lecture tables are provided with gas, compressed air, partial vacuum lines, electrical outlets for 60 cycle A.C. current, motor generators, and D.C. current from storage batteries. A timing circuit is provided for each laboratory, and the mechanics laboratory contains a vibration-proof pillar.

It has been a good many years since Physics was a required course at Woman's College or any other liberal arts college in the country. However, during the past four years people have become more Physics conscious. World War II has been called a physicist's war. The statement that in this war 100 physicists are worth a million soldiers originated in England, when it was found how important the physicist was in meeting the threat of magnetic mines, night bombers, submarines, and other such forces. Never before has Physics been in so favorable a position to demonstrate its effectiveness, and the demonstration is most impressive. The outcome of this boom must necessarily be the introduction of more physical technics in industry. Leaders in the current developments will be found in high industrial places in the future, and there will be a great need for young assistants. The field will offer unlimited possibilities to the young, eager college graduate; therefore, any student showing ability in Physics should be encouraged.

After every war there is always the possibility of a depression. However, if this should occur, I think the physicist will feel such a depression to a lesser degree, because of the rapidly growing part his work is playing in the nation's life. The growth of Physics through which we are now living is a clear example of how the continual growth of science forms the main line of man's gradual development towards a more complete humanity. The discovery of the laws of heat and electricity preceded the development of steam and electrical powers which transformed the world. Electrons opened the way for radio, which broadens our outlook. Now, nuclear physics causes us to dream of a life based on atomic power. In order to make use of these developments, society must become more highly organized. Individuals depend upon one another more and more as their work grows more specialized. Thus, Modern Physics forces man to become more completely a social being. Disorganization now would create greater havoc than in a pretechnical society. A world disorganized by war cannot function smoothly and, as a result, all mankind suffers. The science which leads towards a unified world thus makes war a greater disaster. Men, therefore, must learn to solve their problems without war. Thus it is that Physics, giving vast new powers to man, is challenging him to shape his world on a more heroic and Christian scale.

Mrs. Lambert Honors Dean and Mrs. Jackson

Julia Ross Lambert, president of the Alumnae Association, entertained informally on the afternoon of New Year's Day, at her home in Asheboro, honoring Dean and Mrs. W. C. Jackson. Approximately forty guests—largely students from Asheboro now attending Woman's College, and their parents—called during the afternoon.

Julia's house, festive with evergreens and other holiday decorations, made a charming setting for the occasion. Wit and wisdom, fact and fancy, youth and maturity, met and mingled, and enjoyed the time together.

Julia was assisted in receiving by her daughter, Julia Ross Lambert. In the dining room, Annie Moring Alexander and Mame Boren Spence poured tea from a prettily appointed table. Misses Margaret and Julia Alexander, now in college, daughters of Mrs. Alexander, served sandwiches and cookies.

*Meteorology Instruments on Roof of Science Building:
Wind Vane,
Anemometer,
Rain Ganger,
Evaporating Tank*

Changing Record on Recording Barometer in one of the Physics Lecture Rooms.

IN MEMORY OF MRS. McIVER

Death came to Mrs. Lula Martin Melver, wife of Dr. Charles D. Melver, founder of Woman's College, about 2:00 o'clock, on Friday morning, December 22, 1944, following a heart attack. She died in the square house on the corner of Spring Garden Street and College Avenue, which was built in 1892 as a residence for the first president of the College, and in which she had lived for fifty-two years. Her daughter, Mrs. John Dickinson, of Philadelphia, was present at the time, having already arrived to spend Christmas with her mother. A simple funeral service was held at the home the following afternoon, in charge of Dr. Charles F. Myers, pastor of First Presbyterian Church, of which Mrs. Melver was a member, and Rev. R. Murphy Williams, pastor of Presbyterian Church of the Covenant. The College janitors served as pallbearers.

From the beginning of her life here, Mrs. Melver was a regal figure, both in appearance and in character. She was a gracious and understanding First Lady while her husband was president, and during the years which followed, she often graced public occasions at the College, until confined to a wheel chair fourteen years ago because of a broken hip; even so, at very special events she would sometimes be present. During the years faculty members have dropped in and out from time to time to enjoy the friendly hospitality of the house on the corner; and many returning alumnae felt that their visit "back home" was not complete without a visit with Mrs. Melver. The students knew her too, and she wore the title of "College Mother" like a crown. Strong support of her husband in the early and critical years of the College, and his wise mentor always, her influence, like his, will long remain.

Miss Cornelia Strong, member of the faculty in the Department of Mathematics, and long time friend of Mrs. Melver, said of her in the Greensboro Daily News:

"Those who were in Greensboro twelve or fifteen years ago, before a broken hip confined Mrs. Melver to a wheel chair, will recall her springing step, her uplifted head, and the little bonnet and veil which she wore year in and year out as if she were a dea-coness. And they will remember with delight the beauty of the rosy face framed by white hair and the little bonnet; the intelligence, candor, benevolence, and especially the serenity, which looked out from her clear eyes.

"To talk with Mrs. Melver was to confirm the impression received from her face. One realized her sincerity, her dignity, her intelligent and sympathetic interest in all that concerned North Carolina and its people, white or black, her wise and generous kindness to individuals, her truly democratic spirit.

"Altogether she was a great lady in the noblest sense of the word 'lady,' and a great woman in the Biblical sense. North Carolina may be proud to have produced her, and we may all be grateful for her gracious life."

She is survived by a son, Charles Melver, two daughters, Annie Melver Young and Lula Martin Melver Dickinson, and two grandchildren.

News from the Alumnae

1893

Annie M. Page is living now in Wadesboro. She is active in community work, especially that of the Red Cross. Miss Page has several nephews in the Armed Forces, and one grandniece. From graduation, until very recently, Annie Page taught school, the majority of the years in Augusta, Ga. She is one of that first galaxy of ten graduates who can look back with joy upon the shining years she spent in the schoolroom, because she loved to teach and did it well.

1894-Com.

Cammie (Curtis) Wright lives in Greensboro, the wife of a retired minister. Mrs. Wright says she belongs to the corps which is fighting on the home front! Two nephews are in the service — one in England; the other, a lieutenant, at Seattle, Wash. She also has a niece, who is working with the Government, specifically with the organization that is building the Alaska Highway. The niece has recently been transferred to Chicago from Canada. Mrs. Wright says she corresponds with each of these young relatives, and that she also writes to a number of young men in the Service overseas, from her own neighborhood, and visits their wives and mothers.

1897

Grace (Scott) Brown writes from her home in Scott, Ark., that she spent last summer in Asheville. While there she saw one of her classmates, Cheves (West) Perky. Mrs. Brown has one son in the Army, a sergeant, stationed in Walterboro, S. C. His wife is with him there. Another son, Gordon, is taking care of Mrs. Brown's farm. He and his wife, daughter Ann Louise, and young Gordon, have a home near her.

Cheves (West) Perky is living now in Asheville, where she is teaching art.

1900

Emma Lewis (Speight) Morris' son, Lewis, is a lieutenant in the Navy. For several months he was stationed at Port Heuneme (an Indian word meaning "place of security"), on the Pacific Coast. But for the past several months he has been in the Marianas as chief supply officer for a Naval Aviation Unit. He has one son.

Lewis Jr. Mrs. Morris' oldest son. Stedman, is in business in Salisbury. He has three children, one son and two daughters.

1901

Rosa Abbott spent several weeks last summer in New York City, doing graduate work at Columbia University. While there, she also attended special educational conferences, and took observation work in speech and guidance laboratories.

Birdie (McKinney) Rowland is assistant dean of women at Peace College last year. Previous to the death of her husband, she lived for many years in the State of Arkansas. Her old home is in Reidsville, where her sister, Emma '06, lives.

Bertha (Sugg) McCullen returned to the teaching profession last fall, after the death of her husband in April, previous. "A place was offered me in the township high school, here in Sampson County, and I accepted it with gratitude. Now I am employed again in my beloved profession, and welcome the chance to fill my time. I miss my husband all the more poignantly because of the long period of care he required before his death. I still live in my own home, and my younger son William and his family are here with me. He took over the management of the farm after his father became ill. William has three little daughters, the youngest born last July. My older son, Donald, has two children—a daughter, and a son, born on October 8. I am very proud of these five grandchildren. I have been active in club work, and last winter and spring did a great deal of knitting for the Red Cross. This year, however, since I am teaching again, I have laid aside everything except church work, which includes teaching a Bible Class in Sunday School and being president of the Woman's Auxiliary, and church treasurer. I always look forward to the Alumnae News. It keeps me in touch with college friends and with the College."

1903

Annie (Kizer) Bost has two sons in the Armed Services—one, a corporal, stationed in England with A Company, Signal Service Training Corps; the other, a S/Sgt., stationed in northern Italy, Headquarters Battery, 346 F. A. Battalion. After fourteen years of distinguished service to the State, Mrs. Bost gave up her work as Commissioner of Charities and Public Welfare some months ago. She was a delegate to the Democratic National Convention, held in Chicago the past summer.

1909

Jean (Booth) Matheson is back in Greensboro, where she really does belong! She is an assistant at the Children's Home Society, coming to this new work from that of hostess at a recreation center for the Pre-Flight Cadets in Chapel Hill. All who know Jean and her lifelong love of children are happy that the Children's Home can have Jean on its staff. Jean's own daughter, Jean, served last summer as counselor at Old Mill Camp, near Greensboro. This winter she is in Baltimore, an inspector for Western Electric Company.

1915

To the classmates and college friends of Alice (Sawyer) Cooper, it will be of interest to know that her husband is a brother of Mabel (Cooper) Adams '15, who was Alice's roommate in college. "Even then Hal was a romantic figure to me, for Mabel talked about him so much, and was devoted to him." After her graduation from Woman's College, Alice went to Vassar College, where she was again graduated. Later she became interested in foods, nutrition, and the buying and management of foods. For a number of years she was associated with the Ella Barbour Club, New York City, but for the last two or three years was manager of a restaurant for Marshall Field and Company, Fieldale, Va. Alice is also deeply interested in books and in art, and is president of the Friends of Weather- spoon Art Gallery, Woman's College.

1916

Mary Gwynn is spending the winter at Brevard, where she conducts a camp every summer for boys and girls. She visited on the campus for a few hours last fall, en route to Leaksville for a visit with her family there.

Octavia (Jordan) Perry went with her husband on a trip to the West Coast last fall. They returned from Seattle by plane. Octavia says it was a great experience—she wasn't sure when she got back how much she was going to associate with "earth-bound" creatures after this! Octavia recommends air travel to all her friends.

Caroline (Robinson) Dellinger says that she is still teaching a sixth grade in Franklin School, Sampson County. Her daughter, Anne Scott, is a freshman at Woman's College.

Marguerite (Wiley) Bilbro writes that she has taught for 24 years in the first grade of one of Asheville's public schools. She has also served as president of the Asheville Classroom Teachers' Association. Marguerite's husband is a pharmacist, owning and operating his own drug store in Asheville. They have no children.

1917

Ann (Daniel) Boyd's oldest son received his pilot's wings last summer at Freeman Field, Ind. Ann, her husband, and her mother, were there for the ceremony. Her second son is a junior in the Salisbury High School, and the youngest child, a daughter, is in the eighth grade. The older daughter is married, and has two children—a daughter nearly 3, and a son, born last September. Ann says that like most fond grandmothers, she does lend a hand in taking care of the grandchildren, and enjoys them very much. Ann is president of the Woman's Missionary Society in her church, and is active in the P.-T.-A., and in the Red Cross Motor Corps.

1918

Gladys (Murrill) Werner has a new daughter-in-law—the wife of her oldest son, Charles, now in his fourth year at Cornell Medical College. They were married last June. The bride is a graduate of Wellesley College. Gladys' son, Lee, left Cornell University in his sophomore year to join the Naval Air Corps, and has been stationed in Corpus Christi, Texas. Her youngest child, Katherine, is a senior in high school. "One of these days, when my brood is still a little further along, I am going to pay a visit to the College. That will be a happy day!" Gladys is still living at Malverne, N. Y.

1919

Alma (Rightsell) Pinnix, membership chairman for the Greensboro Branch of the AAUW, was hostess last fall at a large tea given at her home in honor of the members of the branch and of a long list of eligibles. The occasion was still further distinguished by the presence of the State President of the AAUW, Mrs. R. A. Herring, High Point, and of Evelyn (Mendenhall) Thompson '24, president of the High Point Branch.

1920

Patte (Jordan) Alexander is editor of League News, publication of the High Point Junior Service League. During October the League published a special edition of the News, dedicated to their men in the Service. One of the featured articles is a letter from Mrs. Roosevelt, reproduced fac-simile. Numerous short articles, stories, and poems—all relating to the war, as well as an attractive lay-out and good printing, make this special number something to be proud of and something for the men who receive it to prize.

Marjorie (Mendenhall) Applewhite writes from Wilmington, where she has a home on the sound, and likes it almost as much in winter as in summer. "We still have some mementoes of the storms in trees and stumps not yet removed. But we have our accomplishments too. This afternoon we tried out our new oyster roast. The flue worked well, and the oysters were grand. This was our 'christening' event. Estelle, my sister in Greensboro, came down with her two boys for Thanksgiving." Marjorie is active in the work of the Red Cross in Wilmington, as well as other community and civic organizations. Her step-daughter, Betsy, is a sophomore at Woman's College.

Winnie (Smith) McKinney is living in High Point—since the meeting of the last annual Methodist Conference last fall. Her husband is a minister, and has a new charge in High Point. Their daughter, Evelyn, is a senior this year at Woman's College.

Carrie (Tabor) Stevens' son, Edgar, is in the Navy. Daughter Blanche is a senior at Queens College, and the youngest child, Rachel, is in the tenth grade of the Elizabethtown High School. Carrie went to Washington early last fall to be with her mother, who was seriously ill at the time.

1923

Julia (Montgomery) Street's daughter, Carol, is a junior at Woman's College this year. She is making a splendid record. Julia says her own activities can be summed up in the common lot of "cook, scrub, sweep, mend, from day's beginning to past day's end! Rush here, rush there — never a moment's grace to spare." (Pretty good rhyming, the editor would say, to have come between flops of the mops!) "But I always quit whatever I am doing when the Alumnae News comes, and sit right down and devour it from cover to cover."

1924

Sallie (Tucker) Mumford resigned as head technician for the City of Greensboro Department of Health, after 16 years of outstanding service. She is keeping house at her home in Greensboro, and joining in community activities.

1925

Born to Mr. and Mrs. W. B. Underwood (Mozelle Jackson), a fourth child, a daughter, October 5, Sternberger Hospital, Greensboro.

You're lucky if you are on the Christmas-card list of Maxine (Taylor) Fountain and her family, for every year something new and pleasing comes from their clever minds. This year an "elephant folio" post card carries the picture of a great fountain as a background, with Maxine, Dr. Fountain, Mark II and Marcia Taylor grouped in front of it. On the reverse side there are three excellent photographs of the two ruling juniors. Evidently Sister Marcia is philosophizing for Brother Mark's benefit. At any rate, this is what is said between them: "Grown-ups are queer. They hold tight on to all they have and then try to take a-way what other-er people have. They break their own things trying to hurt other folks, and some-times kill each other, even on Christ-mas Day, when they ought to think a-bout Saint Nicholas and San-ta Claus and Ba-by Je-sus and good peo-ple like that. Why can't they love their own things, then share them with other-ers, and sit down to-gether to face the world un-a-fraid?"

1926

Anne (Crouch) Ford is back in Montclair, N. J., as librarian in the Hillside Junior High School. She spent last year in Greensboro, as director of elementary school libraries.

Ruth (Owen) Miller visited on the campus one day last fall, the first time she had been back since her graduation. She has two daughters — Martha Ellen 5, and a baby daughter, not yet a year old. Ruth has been teaching almost continuously since graduation, but deserted the schoolroom last year for homemaking.

1928

Naomi Schell, now living in Asheville, did notable work many years on the foreign mission field, in Japan, for the

MARY COLLINS POWELL '24
Assistant Program Director for an American Red Cross Recreation
Club, Overseas

Mary Collins Powell, Tarboro, joined the Red Cross in June, 1943, and was assigned to overseas duty. She has been in England about a year and a half, as assistant program director with an overseas recreation club of the Red Cross. Mary Collins has an M.A. degree in Physical Education from Columbia University. For several years she taught physical education at State Teachers College, Harrisburg, Pa., but for a number of years previous to her appointment with the Red Cross, she was director of physical education at Mary Baldwin College, Staunton, Va.

Baptist Church. As a Christmas greeting to her friends this year, she sent an attractive folder, entitled, "God Is Working His Purpose Out." Here are two of the fine passages: "As we approach that season of the year when we celebrate the gift of God's Only Son for the working out of His eternal purpose and see our world literally torn apart by history's worst war, our first impulse is black despair. But a prayer for vision brings new insight into the deeper significance of events and the firm conviction that God is making even the wrath of man to praise Him and to serve His eternal purpose." * * "What else can result from Christian soldiers and chaplains taking the salvation of God's love even to the captured enemy if not that the world may know? And is it not a promise that they shall all be one when non-Christian American boys are brought to new life in Christ by the so-called savages in some far-flung jungle? These are perhaps exceptional occurrences. Let us then look at events which unquestionably point to future trends. When we see the United States of America accepting her responsibility as a member of the family of nations; when we see Russia repudiating world revolution in favor of a family of nations; when we see the younger nations recognized and minority groups promised nationhood; when we see 21 nations, then 42 nations, then 51 nations, all agreed on one purpose — to provide for future accord among themselves; when we see all these pointers, can we not find faith to believe indeed that even though perhaps unknown to many whom He is using, God is working His purpose out?"

Martha Farrar is working in the children's department of the Pack Memorial Library, Asheville.

1929

Grace (Hankins) Darsie and her family have moved to Arden, where her husband is teaching in Christ School. They are living in a new house especially built for them last summer. Grace is teaching ballroom dancing to the boys. "The boys are intensely interested in learning. Teaching boys only is a slight innovation for me, and I am enjoying it." Before her marriage, Grace was a member of the faculty of Woman's College, in the department of physical education. She is also taking a correspondence course in children's literature from the University of Chicago.

Betty (Steinhart) Widmer writes from Aulander, where she and her husband have a farm. "Right now I am looking after selling tobacco, picking peanuts, cotton, and so on. Have pigs too. Had a garden last summer and canned over 350 jars. I enjoy life on the farm very much. Our Woman's Club here in Aulander is active, and we feel that we really do a fine work. I am co-chairman of the welfare department, and it is our time to serve supper next Monday night for the Civitan Club. The Civitans meet every month, and our club serves the suppers for them. Our club is having Dad's night tomorrow night and I will help with the plans for that event. We do a great deal of knitting and sewing for the Red Cross through the Woman's Club, and I enjoy this too, as you know. I heard Eunice Rountree, Ph.M., L.C., in a quiz program from Anacostia, D. C., over the radio recently, and had a letter from her today. My love to you and my friends at College."

Rachel Payne Sugg is superintendent of public welfare in Green County, with headquarters at Snow Hill.

1930

Fannie (Owen) Ashcraft lives in Iowa City, Iowa. She has two children — a son John Robert, and a daughter Sarah Frances. Her husband, a lieutenant in the Air Force, is an instructor in celestial navigation.

Sue Underhill writes from Miami: "There is nothing spectacular to tell you, but I do love Miami and my work in corrective reading at Andrew Jackson High School. The school system here is excellent. Wish I could have stayed longer with my friends on the campus last summer, but I am hoping to get back before too long."

1931

Born to Mr. and Mrs. T. B. Winstead (Louise Gorham), a daughter, Laura Leggett, October 8, Elm City.

Mary Ellen (Bass) Mayo is living now in Hampton, Va.

Pvt. Elizabeth Hart, WAC, is stationed at the present time with Company 20, 3rd Regiment, Army Post Branch, Fort Des Moines, Iowa. "I returned to the States last September, after 18 months of foreign service in Edmonton, Alberta, Canada; and Fairbanks, Alaska, with the U. S. Army engineers. Was I surprised to run into Zelma Day '31 one morning in Fairbanks! We certainly did have a talk-fest—thick and fast. I enlisted in the WAC in Los Angeles, Calif., for training in Physio-therapy for the Army Medical Corps."

Katherine (Morgan) Kirkman and her children returned to their home in High Point last fall, after a year in San Juan, Puerto Rico, where they went to be with Mr. Kirkman, who has been managing the island railroads for the Federal Government.

Olive (Newell) Shepherd and her husband are living now at 2321 Friendly Road, Greensboro. He was honorably discharged from the United States Marine Corps last September, and returned to his old desk and typewriter in the Greensboro News-Record newsroom. He volunteered in the Marines in June, 1942. Mr. Shepherd joined the staff of the News-Record in 1938, and with the exception of the interval spent with the Marines, he has been a familiar figure in and around the city and county on regular and special assignments.

1932

Marion (Holoman) Fowler writes from Akron, Ohio: "My most interesting activity outside the realm of home is at present serving as chairman of the board of trustees of the Child Guidance Center here. It has been an interesting experience and a variation from previous volunteer services for family agencies. For various reasons, and at different times, the entire staff resigned during the summer months, with the exception of a psychiatrist. We had to find seven new people, but they were found, and everything is functioning smoothly now." Marion's husband is a doctor—a specialist, and they have two small sons. "We were at home in Rich Square for a few days last May, my first visit in three years. It was wonderful to see North Carolina again at that time of year. Do you realize how beautiful North Carolina is in May? Our two boys are growing so fast it is hard to realize they were babies just a little while ago. Jack is in kindergarten. Henry is definitely going to be a chef. He 'cooks' all over the house! My husband and I left them not long ago in care of a dependable nurse, and went to Chicago. While he attended the meetings of the Academy of Eye, Ear, Nose, and Throat, I did Marshall Field and Company! We saw Oklahoma, too—that was a real thrill. Would you believe it—I have a picture of Alumnae News stuck in a corner of my mirror, for a little touch of home. When my 'favorite magazine' comes in, I always turn first to my own class column, of course, to read the news from my class mates. I keep wondering about this one and that one, and wish they would all send the News more items about themselves. I want to know how many children they have, or what their other jobs are, how they spend their leisure time, if any, and all the things they do when they are busy. So girls, do write the News! I am sure you know that my sister, Judy (now Mrs. Burns), is on the staff of the Greensboro Daily News, doing reporting."

Jessie (Parker) Neeley is a laboratory technician in the Medical Research Laboratory, Fort Bragg. Her husband is in the Army, overseas.

Evelyn Underwood is this year a member of the faculty of Mars Hill College, teaching in the Department of History. She has an M.A. degree from the University of North Carolina, Chapel Hill. Her thesis, "The Struggle for White Supremacy in North Carolina," was printed by special request in the publication of the State Historical Commission. Since her graduation from Woman's College, Evelyn has taught history in the high schools of Waynesville and Gastonia.

1933

Lucile (Freeman) Newlin is teaching public school music in the Oxford system. Her husband is in the Army.

Wilna Shinn teaches vocational home economics in the Mebane High School. She also supervises certain senior home economics majors from Woman's College, who are assigned to spend a period of two weeks in Mebane, during which time they assume all the responsibilities of a regular member of the high school faculty, including supervising of lunchrooms and community canneries, as well as other features of home economics work.

Treva (Wilkerson) Mathis resigned her position in the College library at Christmas, and is living the life of a homemaker at Muir's Chapel, near Greensboro. We miss her smile, bright head, and general efficiency in the library.

1934

Born to Dr. and Mrs. Frank W. Foote Jr. (Bernardene Johnson), a second daughter, Emilee Clemens, August 17, 1944, New York City. Big sister Carol is six. Dr. Foote is associate diagnostic pathologist for New York State, and associate pathologist at Memorial Hospital, New York City. Bernardene has a brother in the Marines, located somewhere in the Pacific. He was graduated from the University of North Carolina, in 1931.

1935

Born to Mr. and Mrs. John G. Burgwyn (Mebane Holoman), a son, a third child, Henry Holoman, December 4, 1944, at the Rocky Mount Hospital.

Lee Ona (Hughes) Phillips lives in Durham. She has two small daughters—Alice 3 and Ellen, 10 months. Lee Ona's husband is in the real estate business. "We feel ourselves to be very lucky because our little family has not been disrupted by the war. I look back upon my four years of teaching in the Greensboro City Schools with genuine pleasure, but homemaking, with children of one's own, is a greater joy. The Alumnae News means a great deal to me, and I am looking forward to the next number."

1936

Born to Mr. and Mrs. J. T. Sanders (Mary Clare Stokes), a son, J. T. Sanders Jr., September 30, 1944, Memorial Hospital, Charlotte. Mr. Sanders is engaged in the practice of law.

Sarah (Ambrose) Wise has a son, Hiram Jr., about a year old. The family lives in Lexington, Va.

Lois Clyde King has been in Washington City since the fall of 1942, as secretary to an attorney in the legal division of the War Production Board. "My work is interesting, and although Washington is crowded, and one has to wait in line for almost everything, I nevertheless enjoy the city very much. As you know, I taught school for several years after my graduation. But during the summers of 1941 and 1942, I took secretarial training, and thereby hangs the tale of my 'migration' to Washington. In the summer of 1940 I studied at the University of Michigan, taking courses in music education. I enjoyed the weeks there, and in addition to the program at the University, there were many outside activities, including visits to places of interest near by."

LaRue (Parrish) Wilson is living now in Kannapolis. She has an adorable small son, Norman.

Elizabeth Whaley writes that she is still working for the U. S. Coast Guard in Norfolk. "I've been here almost three years, trying to get this war won." Elizabeth comes to Greensboro all along, as the job permits, to see her family and friends.

1937

Born to Mr. and Mrs. Louis T. Jamme (Susan Hamlin), a daughter, Frances Hamlin, June 29, 1944, Mitchell Field Hospital, Hempstead, N. Y.

Margaret (Bunn) Brodie has a son, about a year old, named Edward for his father. The Brodies live in Norfolk, Va.

Hilda (Dowdy) Chapman and her husband have been in Burlington since December, 1943, where he operates a photography studio, both for portraits and commercial work. Hilda says she worked in the studio as receptionist and general assistant until shortly before the arrival of their son, David Andrew, last June 12. Hilda is especially remembered on the campus for her good singing. She writes: "I have had little time for singing during the past several years, but I expect to begin lessons again when the baby is old enough for me to leave him all along."

Until then I am getting a lot of good practice singing lullabys—and David seems to like them! My war work has been necessarily limited to the salvage campaign—saving waste paper, tin cans, grease, and the like, and buying War Bonds and Stamps. I am trying to do my bit in these ways. Please give my sincerest regards to my friends among the faculty. Those years at Woman's College are dearly remembered." The sympathy of the Alumnae Association is extended to Hilda and her husband in the death of their baby daughter, Garnette Elizabeth, in 1942.

Alethea (Hough) Vann is living now with her parents at Oak Ridge. Her husband is a lieutenant colonel with the Army in France. Alethea writes that her time is very much occupied looking after their twin sons, John and David.

Martha (McRae) Alsip's husband is a captain in the Medical Corps of the U. S. Army. He is now stationed at Camp Jackson, Columbia, S. C., having been transferred to this station from Camp Carson, Colorado Springs, Colo. Martha is with her husband.

Dorothy Sherwin has a new job this year as associate technician in the laboratory of the health department, City of Greensboro. For two years previous, Dorothy was an assistant in the Department of Chemistry, Woman's College, and counselor in Woman's Hall.

1938

Frances (Alexander) McLeod is teaching language arts and North Carolina history in the Morganton High School, having gone to this new work after teaching for several years in the Colfax High School. Frances did graduate work last summer at Appalachian State Teachers College, and in the summer of 1943, at the University of Mexico.

Anne Crosland is teaching Latin and English in the Rockingham High School.

Florence Nelson is teaching physical education at Guilford College this year. She received an M.A. degree in supervision and administration of physical education, New York University, summer of 1943.

Mary Alice (Perkins) Moody is teaching this year in the Cooleemee High School.

Lorena (Strohm) Evans is teaching again in the Glen Burnie High School, Annapolis, Md. Her husband is still stationed at Sea Girt, N. J.

1939

Born to Mr. and Mrs. R. C. Linthicum (Edna Cartwright), twin sons, Robert Culbert Jr. and Charles Hammond, October 28, 1944. University Hospital, Baltimore, Md.

Born to Mr. and Mrs. Schuyler Mills (Reva Mae Heindinger), a daughter, Carolyn Reva, November 11, 1944.

Julia B. (Godwin) Romney is in Raleigh, doing secretarial work for the Seaboard Air Line Railway. Her husband is a lieutenant with the U. S. Marine Corps Reserve, now in the Pacific.

Wilma Helsabeck teaches a first grade in the Biscoe Public School.

HELEN BOLLING '39
Staff Assistant with the American Red Cross Somewhere in Europe

Helen Bolling, High Point, is now on the European continent, as a staff assistant with the American Red Cross. Specifically, she is still traveling with the clubmobile, making and handing out doughnuts and coffee to the fighting men. In fact, Helen and her outfit are right along with the men, very near the actual scene of combat. "I still make doughnuts and coffee. Only now we also hand them out to the fighting men, along with candy, cigarettes, newspapers (when we can get them), writing paper, and a lot of chatter. Our sixteen months in England helped a great deal in preparing us for what we are experiencing here, and for the demands we are trying to meet. Every day we learn more about what the men in this Army want in the way of recreation, and we are continually trying to dream up new ideas. We came to France on D plus 40, and have lived right in the field, just as the soldiers do. At first it was fox holes and pup tents, and many times we wished we were in the same physical condition as when we left college. We drive our own two-and-a-half ton GMC truck, and live in battle dress. And did you speak about a bath? One day a countess on whose second cow pasture we were bivouacked offered us the use of her bath tub for an hour, and we almost mobbed her! I will never forget many of our experiences here.

"I shall never forget one Sunday morning I am thinking about now. When we got up it was peaceful and lovely, as only a green orchard (where we had spent the night) can look in that part of France. For a moment you were sure that a war just could not be going on. We lined up and were ready to move on, when a message came to me that Arch had got it. I could hardly believe what I heard. But as we moved ahead, I began to see why. There had been fighting. The enemy dead, and the dead cattle, had not been removed from the roadsides—the smell was terrific, and the roads almost impassable. We went on to a field which had been left by the Germans only about thirty hours before. They had moved out so fast that their supper had been left on the table in the kitchen of a farmhouse.

"It was in this particular field—you will hear the name when I come home—that our group started on a fairly basic schedule. Up at six in the morning to turn the doughnut machine and make doughnuts until noon; clean the truck; take off with the outfit to serve; stay with the men until almost black-out. A few days later we were told that our clubmobile was to go on a special assignment the next day. We loaded to the gills with doughnuts and coffee, and took off after our guide. We rode all morning over the bumpiest roads that could be imagined. Finally we turned off the main road and went toward a CP sign—when swish!—a tank went past us in a cloud of dust. Then another and another and another. We decided to turn off into a field and let this job have the road. As we headed into the field, we saw men diving from their vehicles into fox holes—and don't think we girls weren't right behind them! I didn't know who the boy was I fell in beside, but he moved over and I asked in a sort of numbed voice what was cooking. He said, 'Lady, what in hell are you doing here? Don't you know the Huns are counter-attacking?' I did not of course, and I wondered just as much as he did why I was there. When the fight was over, and we came out to shake ourselves off, who should appear but the CG himself. He told us what was happening. Then he said, 'Girls, my men have been fighting for days. They haven't seen a girl from home since they have been here. How about going on foot to each of the tanks in the line, and giving the men a couple of doughnuts and a smile; and then clear out for safety.' This we did. There is much, much more to tell. But there will be another time."

Margaret (Holland) Metcalf is doing secretarial work with the Budget Bureau, Raleigh. She recently returned from the West Coast, where she had been with her husband, now on duty in the South Pacific.

Ruth Lee was awarded the degree of master of arts in education at the University of North Carolina, Chapel Hill, last August.

Caroline Lewis is doing library work in Norfolk, Va.

Alice (Murdoch) Brown's husband is a captain in the Army, overseas. Alice was a visitor on the campus last fall, and at that time her husband was in Belgium, but going frequently into Germany on supply missions. They have a daughter, Alice Murdoch, born October 16, 1943.

Elizabeth Phillips is the author of a poem, Benedictory, published in a recent number of The American Scholar. She studied last year at the University of Iowa. Elizabeth was formerly on the staff of the Woman's College News Bureau.

Willie Pritchard is teaching an eighth grade at Conway High School, Northampton County. She lives at home in Seaboard, commuting the ten miles to Conway morning and evening. She has 41 pupils in her grade. "Instead of eighth grade math, I have world history with juniors and seniors. This year I am also assistant teacher for the Ladies' Bible Class at Mt. Carmel Baptist Church, and teacher of the Ladies' Class at Pleasant Grove Methodist Church, my own church. All together, I am a very busy person. Best wishes to my friends at College."

Marjorie Pye is doing hospital recreation work with the American Red Cross, Station Hospital, Hunter Field, Ga.

Blanche Tuten is living at Engelhard, in Hyde County — "way down on the eastern coast of North Carolina. She writes: 'Engelhard and Stumpy Point are both quaint little villages, the people nice and friendly. Once you stay here for a while, it is hard to leave. Fishing is good. Crabbing is excellent. You really should come down and go goose hunting. That is fascinating! The season begins every year on November 1.'"

Jane Umstead, director of nutrition for the Dairy Council of High Point and Greensboro, attended the meeting of the North Carolina Dietetic Association, held in Alumnae House the latter part of last November. She is a member of the educational advisory committee of the National Dairy Council, and this appointment requires that she make a trip to Chicago every two months, for the next three years. On Thanksgiving Day Jane flew to Chicago to attend one of these meetings. Last summer Jane attended a meeting of the American Home Economics Association in the Windy City, and remained for the summer conference of the National Dairy Council, and also for the two-day training course which followed the meeting of the Council, given for new directors and assistants. Jane herself was a member of the training course faculty.

ter, Linda Sue, December 11, Biltmore Hospital, Asheville.

Born to Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Hutton (Joyce Rouse), a son, James Madison Jr., November 3, 1944. Joyce was a Pfc. in the WAC and for a year served as a classification specialist with the WAC Detachment, Washington, Pa. She was honorably discharged in April, 1944. At the present time she is making her home with a sister, in Dillon, S. C., while her husband is with the 81st Division in the South Pacific.

Born to Mr. and Mrs. Otis B. Osborne (Maxie Moore), a son, Charles William, August 18, Greensboro.

Roberta (Cowles) Spikes made the front page of an October issue of Hospital Gremlin, paper published weekly by the U. S. Naval Hospital, Corpus Christi, Texas, for the patients and staff. The story is all about the hospital library which Roberta manages — "one of the most popular units in the hospital recreation program." At the time this was written, the library had only one large room, but "an addition which is a part of the new hospital building program will be available soon. Great advancement has been made in the services of the library in its short life, and our hats are off to Mrs. Spikes and her helpers who continue to brighten the convalescent hours of our patients and the leisure hours of our staff." The story is accompanied by a good cut, showing a section of the library.

Naomi Daniel has been X-ray and laboratory technician in the Harnett County Hospital, Dunn, for about a year and a half. "I am on 24-hour duty; that is, I work during the day and am subject to call at night. We are always very busy but I enjoy every minute of it."

My Miller (Heffner) Gebreke is doing secretarial work with the United States Treasury Department, Washington. Her husband is in the Army, and is also stationed in Washington City, in the office of Strategic Services.

Mary Cecile (Higgins) Bridges is secretary to the Chief U. S. Probation Officer, Greensboro. Her husband is supervisor of the Mutual Colonial Agency of the Massachusetts Mutual Life Insurance Company.

Elizabeth Holmes has added several of her compositions to the holograph collection in the Woman's College library: String Quartet No. 1, first and second movements; Two Songs, Brine, and Inscription for the Ceiling of a Bedroom; and two piano pieces, Prelude and Minutade.

Frances Louise (Ramsey) Jones lives in Richmond, Va., where she has a job as copy writer with the Presbyterian Committee on Publications. Her husband is a Lieutenant with the Coast Artillery.

Nola (Reed) Hankins has a secretarial position in Winston-Salem, with the Bowman Gray Medical School of Wake Forest College. Her husband is a physician.

Annie Lea Rose is working in the advertising department of United Rubber Company, New York City. She lives at Huntington House, 94 Fourth Avenue, not very far from the apartment of her college roommate, Celia Durham '40.

Elizabeth Sutton's engagement to Dr. Morris A. Robbins, Bordentown, N. J., has been announced. Elizabeth wrote last fall from the Radford School, El Paso, Texas.

Pearl L. (Sykes) Stovall is a case worker with the Guilford County Welfare Department, Greensboro, while her husband, a lieutenant (j.g.), is serving with the Medical Corps of the U. S. Navy.

Olive Mae Williams teaches vocational home economics in the high school at Stoneville. She also supervises certain of the senior home economics majors from Woman's College, who are assigned to Stoneville for a period of two weeks, in which to do actual practice in teaching their subject before graduation.

1941

Born to Lt. and Mrs. Howard R. Innes (Sara Colerider), a son, Howard Robert Jr., September 4, Mercy Hospital, Charlotte, Lt. Howard is in the Medical Corps, and is stationed at Fort Lewis, Washington. "He hopes to receive a leave soon to come home to see the baby. I certainly do enjoy the Alumnae News — always look forward to its arrival."

Born to Mr. and Mrs. Stuart MacMackin (Alice Peters), a daughter, Alice Cynthia, September 16, Schenectady, N. Y.

Born to Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Lindau (Betsy Sanders), a first child, a daughter, Sarah, December 11, Biltmore Hospital, Asheville. Betty lives at Blue Ridge.

Bettie Rachel Baise is teaching a first grade in a rural school near Reidsville.

Dorothy Banks has been demonstration agent in Carteret County, with headquarters at Beaufort, since February, 1942.

Katherine (Carlton) Price writes from Selma. "This year I am teaching science in the high school. My husband is with the Army overseas. He served first in Italy, and is now in France. I am living with his parents, and his mother takes care of our 16-months-old daughter, Marilyn, while I am at school. This is the first year I have ever taught."

Hazel (Cobler) Murphy's husband is a first lieutenant, a fighter pilot, in the Army Air Force. He is a prisoner of war of the German Government. Hazel herself is living with her parents in Winston-Salem, and serving as office manager for the International Business Machine Corporation.

Elizabeth Falls is spending this year with her family in Shelby. Last year she was director of the Nursery School at Woman's College. Buzz writes that she does miss being in the thick of all college activities, but "I cannot say that I find time hanging on my hands. I work in the public library here, keep house (sans cook) for my father and mother and right now, in addition, I am taking care of my 21-months-old niece. Really, I find that there just aren't enough hours in the day!" (The campus misses Buzz too, and we are going to invent an irresistible reason for getting her back for a visit — even though there are only 24 hours in a day!)

1940

Born to Mr. and Mrs. C. V. Belgarde (Oliver Briggs), a second child, a daughter, Sigrid Heine writes from Mt. Clemens, Mich.: "I am still working for Hacker Boat Company here in Mt. Clemens. My fiancé, a T/Sgt. in the Army, has been a prisoner of war in Germany since last March. I am doing as much war and community work as I can — am a nurses' aide for the Red Cross, and I also help entertain the convalescent Service men at Selfridge Field Base Hospital. I have a Girl Scout Troop of senior service scouts, and this activity takes a good deal of my spare time."

Helen (Lefler) Garner was married on New Year's Day, 1944, and her husband left the following July for duty as a chaplain in the Army, and was stationed in Hawaii. Last September Helen enrolled as a student at Southwestern Seminary, Fort Worth, Texas, and is spending the winter there working for a master's degree in religious education. "Everyone I have gone — until I got to Texas — I met Woman's College alumnae on every corner. How I do miss them here!"

Julia (Paschal) Mauze is now in San Francisco, Calif.

Virginia Roth has been working for nearly two years as an assistant clerk-stenographer for the War Finance Committee, New Haven, Conn. "My fiancé, John R. Cooper, a graduate of the University of North Carolina, Chapel Hill, class of 1941, has been in the South Pacific for nearly three years. He is a technical sergeant at an advanced depot of the Fifth Air Force Service Command. He has been through the New Guinea campaign, and wears the Papuan Campaign Citation device. I am looking forward to the next number of the Alumnae News. These days, when one has so little time for writing, the News fills a great need, in helping us to keep up with one another."

Elizabeth Sherrill is dietitian at Lowrance Hospital, Mooresville.

Jane Streetman studied music theory at the Juilliard School of Music, New York City, last summer, but is this year teaching piano in Sanford.

Yvette (Turlington) Stewart has a son, born last September. They are living in Greensboro.

Mary Frances (Waters) Wyatt is keeping house in Fayetteville, where her husband is a sergeant in the U. S. Army.

Betty (Welsh) Thomas has a small daughter, Bettina Hamilton, 15 months old. They are living in Monroe. Betty's husband is a first lieutenant in the Army, with the Heavy Artillery, and has been stationed in France for several months.

Caroline White is teaching a sixth grade in the Elizabeth City public schools. During vacation last summer, she worked at Virginia Beach.

MILDRED HAUGH '40BSHE
Overseas in Italy with the American Red Cross

Mildred Haugh, Short Hills, N. J., writes that she is somewhere in Italy, in the very thick of things. It took three weeks to get to Italy after she embarked, but the weather was good and the food on board ship fine. Mildred is on leave of absence as supervisor of foods for the Statler Hotel system. Incidentally, one of her first jobs in Italy was to operate a bakery under the direction of Miss Wood, who wrote food textbooks studied by Mildred at college. Though the censor makes fine lace patterns of some of her letters, Mildred did manage to say she was flown to her latest destination in a C-47. It takes quite a bit of flying to be responsible for 12 bakeries within a 150-mile radius. In the midst of so much baking, she requested saltines from home and expressed a longing for newspapers! Mildred says the dirt is terrible, but service is cheap, and she gets her laundry done for two cigarettes or one-quarter bar of soap. As she gets only six packs of cigarettes a week, she is glad she brought plenty of soap. Material is so scarce over there that she wrote she would like to have some thread and bright-colored cloth with which to decorate her quarters.

ing in library work at Woman's College. But it certainly was confusing when I was sent to the German branch. Half the customers don't speak much more English than I could German. So I kept quiet much of the time!"

Elise Boger, Concord, has an exciting job as flight stewardess with Eastern Air Lines. She was formerly home service secretary with the Red Cross, Concord. Her base is Atlanta, Ga., and she flies from Atlanta to Houston, Texas. One of her friends reports that she looks perfectly elegant in her smart uniform.

Anne (Bratton) Allen has been with her husband in Houston, Texas, for the last several months. He is a pilot at Ellington Field. Anne's home is in Raleigh.

Margaret Baker is a laboratory technician with the American Cyanamid Company, Stamford, Conn.

Betty Ann (Barber) Lennson is laboratory technician at Bowman Gray Medical School of Wake Forest College, Winston-Salem. Her husband is a captain in the Flying Safety Division, Winston-Salem.

Judy Barrett is teaching an eighth grade in the Needham Broughton High School, Raleigh. She spent last summer in Maine as waterfront counselor at Camp Hiawatha, Kezar Falls. On the way up she stopped in New York City for a visit with Margaret Little and Nancy Ferguson. Judy says she had a wonderful summer.

Mary Ellen (Bass) Mayo is living now in Hampton, Va.

Blanche Moore Berry is teaching math and the social studies in the junior high school, High Point.

Ruth Blackman is back on the campus this year as graduate assistant in the department of home economics. "It is swell to be here again."

Ellen (Cochran) Powell is Navy inspector for the U. S. Rubber Company shell loading plant, Charlotte. Her husband is with the Paratroopers in the South Pacific.

Elizabeth M. Cooke has a position in Charlotte, with the Civilian Retirement Records Branch of the A.G.O. She spent her vacation last summer with her family in Franklinton. Elizabeth says she did a lot of victory canning while there, and went to the dances at Camp Butler twice a week.

Polly (Crech) Sandidge spent last summer with her husband, as he was being transferred from camp to camp in the South. This year she is teaching a fourth grade in the Venable school, Charlottesville, Va.

Mary Catherine (Dunn) Edmondson is teaching a seventh grade in the West Edgecombe School, Rocky Mount. Her husband is a captain in the U. S. Marine Corps Reserve.

Julia Davis is teaching home economics in the Thomasville High School. She is also active in several community organizations, and serves a number of hours each week as a nurses' aide.

Elizabeth Forgy teaches English and civics in the Mayodan High School.

Lois Frazier is teaching courses in business at Brevard College. She says she enjoys the work and life there very much.

Ruthana Gill is still in San Antonio, Texas, and still employed at Kelly Field as an inspector of airplane engines. She speaks of happening to meet Louise (Stirewalt) Reynolds '43 in downtown San Antonio some weeks ago, "and were we glad to see each other! We had a grand reunion right there — deep in the

1942

Born to Cpl. and Mrs. W. D. Whicker (Elizabeth Parrish), a son, William Donald, November 5, 1944, Winston-Salem.

Margaret Alexander teaches a first grade in the Winston-Salem city system.

Sadie Barineau is teaching history a second year at Kannapolis. "I spent last summer again in New York City, working in the public library — got my train-heart of Texas! After 18 months in the plant here, I had a vacation for two weeks last summer, and went home for a visit with my people in Alexandria, Va. It was wonderful to see them. If anybody should be interested in coming to Texas to work, I should like for him to know that there are vacancies at Kelly Field at this writing, for Government jobs."

Virginia (Harrelson) Fonville writes that she is enjoying her new home in Burlington immensely. "It is a grand feeling to be settled, after having moved eleven times in the past two years. I can sympathize with all the Army wives. My husband received a discharge from the Navy about six months ago, after serving 16 months as a flight instructor. He is now in the insurance business, and was recently appointed manager of the Mutual Benefit Health and Accident Association Agency of Burlington. How's that for a title! I am constantly meeting friends and classmates and it always gives me a grand and glorious feeling to see them. Last but not least, our son is fast growing out of baby days and ways—of course we are mighty proud of him."

Frances Lee Henry is doing medical research at Mellon Institute, Pittsburgh, Pa., working toward an M. S. degree at the University of Pittsburgh.

Helen Higdon is assistant home economics agent in Swain County, with headquarters at Bryson City.

Ruth Arlene Holt teaches English in the high school, Four Oaks.

Josephine Howard writes a chatty letter from Fayetteville. "Of course Fort Bragg really makes Fayetteville, and the continual stream of activity between the two places spells a lot of fun for prospecting females! Come on down! Seriously, Fayetteville is an interesting place in which to live—and it is naturally the center of much social activity these days. I enjoy being here very much."

Sarah Jane Hunter is teaching in the Pre-School of Berea College, Berea, Ky. "My work is with the very youngest children—the two-and-three-year-olds."

Claire (Hyman) Blumenthal is living in Cincinnati, Ohio, where her husband is interning at the Jewish Hospital.

Marjorie (Johnson) Johnson's husband is a major in the U. S. Army Air Force, and served more than a year in the Pacific War Theater. He is now stationed in Tucson, Ariz., and Marjorie is with him there. "Keeping house for the time being."

Dorice (Litchfield) Rogers is director of the department of physical education at Virginia Interment College, Bristol, Va. Her husband is a captain, now in the European theater of action. He was wounded in service and wears the Purple Heart.

Mable (Lloyd) Gordon is living in Hillsboro. She writes of seeing a number of her classmates from time to time. The latter part of last summer she spent several days with her college roommate, Ruth (Rhyne) Hoover, in Hampton, Va. Ruth has young daughter Sue. While in Hampton, Mable also visited Marie Reilly and Mary Lou Mackey, both of whom are working at Langley Field. Later in the fall, Mable and her husband went to Burlington to spend a Sunday with Virginia (Harrelson) Fonville and her husband. Mable is teaching commercial subjects in the Hillsboro High. Her husband is representative for Public Opinion Surveys, Inc.

Beatrice Mann has a secretarial position at Blauenthal Field, Army Air Base, Wilmington.

Mae Melvin is spending her second year at Chapel Hill as graduate assistant in the School of Public Health. She expects to receive her M.S. degree next June. "The work is extremely interesting. I assist in the bacteriology, parasitology, and malariology labs, and do research in malariology. Last summer I worked as technician for the department and helped in the medical parasitological labs; also assisted in reorganizing the course in bacteriology. It is really grand fun!"

Selene Parker is teaching commercial subjects in the Greensboro High School. She and Dorothy McBride room together. Dorothy teaches physical education at junior high.

Anne Parkin teaches English and French in the Ellerbe High School.

Sarah Maude Pittman has a third grade in the Lumberton public schools.

Margaret Potts presides over a first grade in the Wilmore School, Charlotte. Last fall she wrote: "I am sharing an apartment for the winter, and trying to settle down after a visit of two months with Ruth Keith '42 at her home in Haworth, N. J. We had a grand time more than once talking about our years at W. C."

Margaret (Ramsaur) Dittmars and her husband are this year in Decatur, Miss. She is teaching physical education in East Central Junior College, and doing part-time secretarial work for the president. Mr. Dittmars was a member of the faculty of Woman's College last year, in the department of secretarial science and business administration.

Jean Riden does clerical work with the Signal Corps, Arlington, Va.

Pvt. Willena Schoene is a WAC, stationed at Fort Meyer, Va., with the Signal Corps. "My work is fascinating, but most exciting. For that reason, reading is my favorite pastime. I never seem to have free hours for enjoying the many amusements that Washington and the post have to offer service people. But I like Army life, even though it is strenuous, and have no complaints to make. My interest in Woman's College is still keen, and the Alumnae News is always welcome. Without it, I know I should lose contact with many of my college friends."

Irene (Smith) Edwards is teaching English in the Cramerton High School. Her husband is overseas with the engineers in the combat area. Irene is sponsor for the Beta Club and for the senior class. She spends almost every week end at her home in Kannapolis.

Constance Smithy is doing secretarial work for Burlington Mills, Greensboro.

Lois Stringfield is connected with Stanford (Conn.) Hospital, giving courses in nutrition and diet therapy to the nurses. She also gives courses in these subjects to the nurses in the Greenwich (Conn.)

Hospital. Her engagement to Peter J. Simone, of Elizabeth, N. J., has been announced, the wedding to take place in the early spring of 1945.

Katherine (Warren) Galloway's husband returned from South America last summer, and they went to Miami, Fla., for six weeks in the early fall. Katherine returned to her home in Raleigh, but her husband went on for further Army training in Arizona.

Marie (Wells) France is now in Montgomery, Ala., keeping house in an apartment. Her husband is a lieutenant in the Army Air Force at Maxwell Field.

1943

Born to Ensign and Mrs. H. E. LeGrand (Emma Josephine Beam), a son, Homer Eugene Jr., September 3, 1944, Shelby.

Born to Mr. and Mrs. L. K. Johnson Jr. (Mary Edna McLean), a daughter, Mary Kay, October 8, 1944, Rockingham. Cpl. Johnson is stationed at Camp Ritchie, Md.

Born to Mr. and Mrs. Brown Siler (LaVelle Michael), a son, William Michael, November 13, Sternberger Hospital, Greensboro.

Born to Mr. and Mrs. E. Bruce Mastin Jr. (Virginia Todd '43), a son, E. Bruce III, November 16, Fairfield, Conn.

Jane Wyche Adams is spending her second year in Goldsboro, teaching a second grade.

Alice Alexander teaches commercial subjects in the Oxford High School.

Louise Aycock is assistant to the minister of the First Methodist Church, Charlotte.

Mildred Aycock has a double-decker job this year—she teaches freshman English five days a week in Goldsboro High School, as well as classes in shorthand, and on Saturdays does secretarial work in a business office.

Marion Axley, who was a member of this class for two years, later transferring to the University of Tennessee, where she was graduated in 1943, with a major in chemistry, is now a WAC. She had basic training at Ft. Oglethorpe, Ga., last fall, and was assigned to Wakeman General Hospital, Medical Technical School, Camp Atterbury, Ind.

Jeane Bain writes from Jonesboro: "Here I am teaching English in grades 8, 9, 10, and 12, and also managing the school library. I am also senior class home room teacher, and we are trying to make this last year the best year the seniors have had yet. Outside of school, I am in charge of one troop of Brownies and one troop of Girl Scouts. This school teaching is really the life—never a dull moment. I miss Woman's College very much, but have been able to get back to the campus several times this year. I think I am doing fairly well with my college sales talks to the senior girls, and so you may be having several of my seniors next year."

Carolyn Bason is now at Fort Benjamin Harrison, Indianapolis, Ind., doing secretarial work with the Civilian Pay Unit, ASFTC. She transferred with the Army Finance School when it moved there from Duke University several months ago.

Margaret Ann Bittick is teaching in Hollins College, in Virginia. "I am here chiefly to teach dance, but I also have classes in archery and badminton. There are 31 girls in our dance group, and they are all enthusiastic about the work. At present we are working with the swimming club on a water ballet. In March we shall assist the choral club in the production of the Pirates of Penzance. Our own dance program comes the middle of April. I do enjoy the Alumnae News — in fact, I'd feel lost without it. Give all my friends at College my regards. Do hope I'll be able to get back to the campus for a visit sometime during the year."

Hazel (Bryant) Johnston is a case-worker with the American Red Cross, home service division, Chester, Pa.

Jane Burrows writes from Ridley Park, Pa.: "Since the first of May, 1944, I have been working at the Sharpe and Dohme Laboratories in Glenolden, Pa., as a laboratory technician in the Rickettsia Unit of the department of virology of the Medical Research Department. Previous to this present position, I worked as a hospital laboratory technician in the Philipsburg, Pa., State Hospital. The study of the Rickettsial diseases is mainly concerned with Rocky Mountain spotted fever and typhus fever. The majority of people have already heard of spotted fever, but this war brought typhus fever closer home to many people, since our troops are being sent where the disease is more prevalent. The work is extremely interesting, as it ranges in a comparatively new field of study, and there is much to be learned. In this type of work, one is always able to discover something new, and go on being educated. In fact, since leaving college, I have found that what I was taught there was only the foundation for what I would be able to learn as I progressed. I am certainly grateful for the Alumnae News. Since I am quite a distance away from the majority of my college friends, the News keeps me posted on their doings. I eagerly await the next number. Best regards to my friends on the campus."

Ruth (Cash) Maynard is keeping house at her home in Hamlet.

Dorothy Cashion is teaching English a second year in the high school, Kannapolis. She spent six weeks in New York City last summer, doing graduate work at Teachers College. "I had a lot of fun in the great city, and saw many other Woman's College girls while there. This year I am rooming next door to two W. C. alumnae — Sadie Barineau '42 and May Etta Burton '43. I am looking forward to the next number of our Alumnae News."

Martha Rob Cherry is teaching home economics a second year in the Roanoke Rapids High School. "Ruby Frances Madry '43 and I are playing at keeping house — some fun, some burned fingers, not to mention the toast! I like my job a lot, to the next number of our Alumnae News."

Carroll (Christensen) Sommerville writes that she and her husband now have a house all their own in Morehead City.

ALUMNAE IN THE ARMED FORCES

Lt. Margaret Bacchus '32, Norfolk, joined the WAC in September, 1942, and is now commanding officer of the Army Air Force WAC Detachment, Spruce Field, Moultrie, Ga. She received her basic training at Fort Des Moines, where she was commissioned, and sent to Camp Pope, as her first assignment to duty.

Lt. Jeannette Martinoni (Mrs. H. R. Loomis), Com. '36, joined the Red Cross in March, 1943, and was sent to Honolulu as a medical secretary. Her husband is a lieutenant (jg.) in the Navy, and is on duty in the Pacific War theater. When last heard from, Jeannette was keeping house in Honolulu, in off-duty hours, and her husband was able to join her there from time to time.

Helen Mae Williams '38, Kings Mountain, T/5, is now doing confidential work at Vint Hill Farms Station, Warrentown, Va. Helen joined the WAC in January, 1943, and after indoctrination at Fort Oglethorpe, Ga., was sent to Kansas City to attend the radio school for twenty weeks. From there she was transferred to Camp Crowder, Mo., for still further training. Last fall Helen Mae was ordered to her present post. Her duties are a military secret. She does admit that she enjoys the work and is happy and proud to be serving her country at this time. "It is good to know that I have released a man for fighting duty." Helen Mae previously taught home economics in the high schools of Seaboard and North Wilkesboro.

Lt. Marian E. Fisher '40BSHE, Northampton, Mass., is now overseas, serving as dietitian in an Army hospital. She joined the Army Specialists Corps in March, 1943. The year after Marian was graduated from Woman's College, she did graduate work in dietetics at the Massachusetts General Hospital. The year following, she was therapeutic dietitian at the Springfield (Mass.) Hospital, going from there to be a hospital dietitian at Fort Bragg; and thence into the Army.

He is stationed at Cherry Point, and she also works there as a mechanical draftsman. "I often run into Woman's College alumnae here. Saw Shirley Mason '43 and Carolyn Wheatley '42 recently. If any of my classmates whom I have not seen are in this vicinity, I should certainly appreciate their letting me know."

Doris (Clark) Walker is secretary to the director of student health at the University of Oklahoma. "From keeping house in an apartment in Baltimore, Md., I went home to Raleigh to spend a month while my husband found a place for us to live here, where he is in the Naval Reserve. It is great fun to meet other Navy couples in a similar war situation, and share experiences with them."

Mary Louise Clement teaches music in the city schools of Wilson. "Early last summer I went to New Orleans to visit Ruth White '43, who teaches physical education at Newcombe College there. I had a lot of fun seeing the sights in this beautiful old city, and eating the wonderful food for which it is famous."

Beatrice Coble is teaching a first grade in the Seversville School, Charlotte. Last summer she did clerical work with the Civilian Retirement Records Branch, AGO, Charlotte.

Joséphine Cooley writes from Cleveland, Ohio, where she is doing graduate study at Western Reserve: "I am living in an apartment with three other girls. One of them went to college in California, one is from New York City, and the other from Canada. I am sure our group could not represent more widely separated parts of the country. We enjoy the apartment very much, although our work consumes most of our time. I am writing my thesis this winter, and expect to receive my master's degree in medical social work next February, from Western Reserve University, here in Cleveland. I shall be glad of course when my work is ended and I can get into a permanent job. Where?—I don't know yet."

Sara Crooks is doing recreational work in Don Cesar Hospital, St. Petersburg, Fla., with the American Red Cross. "My work is with returned Army Air Force men who have been on overseas duty. This is a rest hospital. The place is beautiful and the work very interesting." Sara was health education secretary last year for the Y.W.C.A. in Greensboro.

Helen Davis is doing secretarial work in Raleigh.

Katherine (Epley) Horton lives in Richmond, Va., where she is doing statistical work for the C. & O. Railroad, and also keeping house.

Ray (Geiger) Wilson has been doing secretarial work for the past ten months in the personnel office of the Naval Research Laboratory, Washington, D. C. Her husband is also stationed in this laboratory. They have an apartment near by, and Ray says the welcome sign is always out for any of her classmates who work in Washington or come that way.

Marjorie Gelston writes from her home in Hudson Heights, N. J.: "Last June Patience Jordan '43, who had been teaching in Kinston, came to New Jersey for a 10-day visit with me. While she was here we 'toured' New York City, and visited numerous places of interest near by. The last week in August, Cynthia Mendenhall '43, my roommate in college, came from Washington City, where she had been working during the summer, for a visit. We spent Labor Day week end at Wading River, Long Island. Cynthia's sister, Martha, of the WAVES, stationed at that time in Rhode Island, traveled down to spend part of the week end with us, and you can imagine the lovely time we three had together. I do want to tell you how wonderful I think the Alumnae News is, and how much pleasure it gives me to receive it. 'Way up here in New Jersey I would be almost completely out of touch with the College and my college friends if it were not for the News."

Martha Gentry is assistant engineer in specifications for Pratt and Whitney Aircraft Company, West Hartford, Conn.

Mary Lois Gordon voted for the first time last fall. She was "candidly photographed" by a Greensboro Daily News staff photographer, together with several other girls, as she was getting "basic training" on how to register. Mary Lois is secretary in the office of public relations at Woman's College.

Dorothy Gueth teaches physical education in the Senior High School, Fayetteville.

Elizabeth Godbey is teaching music in the Suffolk (Va.) High School. She spent last summer in Washington City working with the Signal Corps.

Jean Hair is working at an aircraft plant in Baltimore, Md.

Margaret (Harden) Rowell lives in Raleigh—keeping house there. She is a member of the Raleigh Little Theatre, an activity which she enjoys very much.

Anne Rue Hauser teaches commercial subjects in Salem College. Last summer she worked in Taunton, Mass., at Camp Miles Standish, as secretary to the transportation officer. She left there the first of September to return to Salem for the second year.

Charlotte (Hudson) Justice is keeping house in High Point. Her husband, a first lieutenant, is stationed in Hawaii. Last summer Charlotte worked as relief dietitian in the High Point Memorial Hospital.

Irma Johnson is teaching a sixth grade in the Woodrow Wilson School, Kannapolis. "I spent a leisure summer in 1944 on the farm at Marion. The Alumnae News was a very welcome guest—enclosed is my fee. I read every word of it, from front to back. It is a grand link with dear old W. C."

Georgia (Keeter) Love writes from Morganton that eight members of her class met in Raleigh last fall for a reunion—"and we had a wonderful time catching up on the news! We met at the Carolina Hotel, and former roommates at college were roommates again for the week end. The girls who came were: Brockett Wilkins, Susan Forbes, Martha Kirkland, Mary Hudson, Ann (Walker) Vernon, Betty (Roberts) Schenck, Elizabeth (Rogers) Titchener, and I. We had dinner Saturday night, October 7, with Elizabeth Titchener, Sunday dinner at Carolina Pines Inn. Of course we didn't stop talking a minute! We all enjoy the Alumnae News, and depend upon it for keeping up with the other girls. Of course the high light of the week end was seeing Liz Titchener's fine little son, who is a junior, and whose father is in the Pacific War Theatre."

Jane Keister is still doing secretarial work at the University of Chicago in the metallurgical laboratory. She and her two sisters, Mary Elizabeth '34, who directs the Nursery School at Chicago University, and Katherine (Keister) Tracy '36, are all living in the Windy City and are keeping house together. Mrs. Tracy's husband is in the South Pacific with the Marines.

Helen (Kemp) Whitney writes from Arlington, Va., where she is store room supervisor in the Arlington Farms Cafeteria.

Eleanor (Kendall) Colman has a position with the Navy in Washington, D. C. Her office is in Jefferson Hall.

Margaret Kinlaw is teaching home economics in the high school, Robbins. For several weeks last summer she worked with the Baptist State Convention, doing Sunday School field work. After that she worked in Service Club No. 4 at Fort Bragg, until school opened. "I had many interesting experiences during the summer."

Martha Kirkland is secretary to the Export Leaf Tobacco Company, Wilson. "I always look forward to receiving the Alumnae News and reading about College and my classmates."

Mary Frances (Knott) Darden is living now in Balboa, Panama. She has a position as a clerk-typist. Her husband is a customs officer for the United States Government.

Harriet Kupferer writes from the University of Connecticut, Storrs, where she is teaching physical education. "I like my job very much. The University is about 25 miles from Hartford, and the nearest town is ten miles away. We are rather isolated, and get into town only about once a week, but I assure you we appreciate that privilege all the more. The University has a slightly larger enrollment than Woman's College, and is co-educational. The country here is beautiful, but the weather gets cold early—it is much colder all winter than it ever gets to be in North Carolina. Perhaps I may yet decide to return to the 'scene of my youth' before summer comes again. At any rate I shall eagerly await the arrival of the Alumnae News. Please send it to me at the University of Connecticut, in care of the Physical Education Department." Harriet resigned her position as physical education instructor in Patterson, N. J., to accept this new post, and last summer attended the graduate school of New York University, at Lake Sebago.

Marguerite (Laughridge) Anderson writes from Marion, where she is living with her parents for the duration. Her husband is an infantryman in the Army. He had basic training at Camp Blanding, Fla. After her marriage in the fall of 1943, Marguerite lived in Baltimore for several months. "Just now I am learning the ropes of motherhood. I have a young son, William Eugene, born last August 23. I enjoy the Alumnae News very much and am enclosing my check."

Marguerite Lazenby is in Winston-Salem this year, a sophomore in the Bowman Gray School of Medicine of Wake Forest College.

Ruth McFarland is teaching a third grade in the Tryon public school.

Ruby Frances Madry writes from Roanoke Rapids, where she is teaching a third grade in the elementary school. She and Martha Rob Cherry, back for the second year teaching home economics, are keeping house with two other teachers.

Shirley Mason is stationed with the Supply Department of the USMCAS, Cherry Point, as a confidential clerk in radio and radar. She has had three promotions since she was assigned to this post — "and of course I love it. I often run into some of my classmates here, and now and then we get together. The bull sessions we have are just like old times on the campus! Enclosed is my membership fee. I would be simply lost without the Alumnae News."

Cynthia Mendenhall worked for the Navy in Washington last summer, as a temporary employee under the Civil Service. She is back in Fayetteville this winter, teaching commercial subjects in the high school.

Mary Melton is doing library work in Detroit, Mich.

Dorothy Leigh Morrison is a laboratory technician at Moore General Hospital, Asheville. "You have probably read that this hospital has been made a tropical disease center; consequently we are terribly busy. A few weeks ago we had a new parasitologist added to our staff, and who should he be but W. C.'s Dr. Ritchie, of the Biology Department. Such a pleasant surprise to a grad like me! Enclosed is my membership fee, and please — another Alumnae News soon!"

Marion Middleton is doing library work in the New York City Public Library. She received her B.S. degree in Library Science from the University of North Carolina, Chapel Hill, last June.

Wilma Morton is an engineering aide, experimental department, with the Pratt and Whitney Aircraft Company, Hartford, Conn.

Ensign Agnes Pettit writes that she is still fighting the battle of Charleston! "I still think I have one of the nicest jobs any WAVES could have, and believe that every one should be a member of the Women's Reserve. But I had better be careful, or I might be transferred to recruiting, and I like it here in Charleston, S. C."

Belle (Purvis) Gaskill wrote from Charlotte last fall, but said that "my present address is uncertain, as is the way with many Army wives."

Charline Rotha is teaching this year in the North Carolina School for the Deaf, Morganton. "I find the work very different from regular teaching and much more interesting to me. I also have a Girl Scout Troop of deaf girls. Last summer I was head swimming counselor at Camp Mt. Mitchell, near Burnsville."

Helen Sams is director of public school music in the Morganton city schools. "Last summer I taught for nine weeks in a Government nursery school in Asheville, my home town. It was not only good

ALUMNAE IN THE ARMED FORCES

Ensign Shirley D. Greenwood, class of 1940, Essex, Conn., joined the WAVES in June, 1944. Basic training was taken at Smith College. After being commissioned there, Shirley was assigned to the Naval Proving Ground, Dahlgren, Va., as assistant civilian personnel officer.

Ensign Edith Hamrick '40, Shelby, became a WAVE in August, 1943. After receiving basic training at Smith College, she was commissioned and sent immediately to Mt. Holyoke College for further study in communications. In December of that year, she was ordered on duty at Jacksonville, Fla., Naval Air Station, Division of Communications.

Ensign Anna M. Caldwell '41AB, Carthage, joined the WAVES in June, 1944, and had basic training at the Midshipmen's School, Northampton, Mass. After receiving her commission there, Anna was transferred to the Fleet Service Schools, NOB, Norfolk, Va., where she attended Radio Material School.

Ensign Eleanor Jackson '41AB, Davidson, is now stationed at the Naval Supply Depot, Norfolk, Va. She was commissioned in the WAVES the latter part of last August, and two days later reported at Cambridge, Mass., for further training in the Navy Supply School, Radcliffe College. After her graduation from Woman's College, Eleanor went to Richmond, Va., to take special training at the Pan-American Business School.

Ensign Carolyn Newby '41BSSA, Newton, of the WAVES, is stationed in Asheville, as disbursing officer at the Naval Convalescent Hospital. Ensign Newby completed officer's training at Northampton, Mass., in July, 1944. Shortly afterwards, she was ordered to Radcliffe College, Cambridge, Mass., for further training in the Naval Supply School there. She finished the course early last December and was assigned to her present post. Following graduation from Woman's College, Carolyn taught commercial subjects for two years in the Kings Mountain High School, but was working in a bank there at the time of her enlistment in the Navy.

fun, but I felt also that I was helping in the war effort. Greetings to Woman's College and my friends among faculty and alumnae."

Sallie Taylor is circulation assistant at the Lawson McGhee Library, Knoxville, Tenn.

Kate Teague teaches the work in home economics in the Burgaw High School.

Ruth Thayer has a teaching fellowship in the Department of Social Welfare, Chapel Hill, and expects to receive her M.S. degree in Social Work next spring. Last summer she worked at Highland Hospital, Asheville.

Helen (Trentham) Schrimpe is living in Lawrence, Kans., keeping house.

Mary Tuttle is in New York City, a reader for Bobbs Merrill Publishing Company. She and Anne Pitoniak '43 have an apartment together at 165 West Fourth Street.

Mary Thorne Tyson is an artist illustrator with the NACA, Hampton, Va.

Frances Wain is this year secretary to the managing director of the North Carolina State Planning Board, with headquarters in Chapel Hill.

Suzanne Waldrop teaches a second grade in the Woodrow Wilson School, Kannapolis.

Lydia Anne Watkins is teaching vocational home economics in the Kings Mountain High School.

Louise Whitehurst has a secretarial position in Washington City, as assistant secretary to Congressman John H. Kerr, a representative from North Carolina.

Jeanne Wygant writes from Atlantic City, "where I shall most likely be for the duration and six months. I am a mechanic on the station aircraft. It is more fun than you can imagine—and interesting."

Jane (Neal) Snow is living the life of an Army wife, and incidentally getting to see America first! "Right now we are west of the Mississippi, in Stuttgart, Ark. We were transferred to this post from Macon, Ga. Enclosed is my alumnae fee. I certainly do enjoy receiving the Alumnae News—especially since we have been going from place to place so much, and only through the NEWS am I able to keep track of my College friends."

Geraldine (Norman) Taylor writes from Laredo, Texas: "We have been here for nearly a year and a half now. My husband is an instructor in the Air Corps. I taught school last year, but Baby Florence Lynn, who arrived last July, is claiming most of my time this winter. We have a four-room house, and the house requires a good deal of care also. Gloria (Metzger) Smith '43 lives about three blocks from us. She is doing some teaching in the schools here. We are expecting Margaret (Grantham) Sherry '43, now at Corpus Christi, Texas, for a visit soon. If any of my classmates or college friends are now located anywhere in this section, I should so much like to have them get in touch with me. I am eagerly looking forward to the next number of the Alumnae News."

Genevieve Oswald is studying at the Julliard School of Music, New York City, this winter.

Elizabeth Owen is teaching commercial subjects in the Reidsville High School.

Ann Palmer is teaching this year at Pembroke College, Brown University, Providence, R. I. Ann went to this post from her work at Woman's College last year. "We are on an accelerated program, and I taught all summer. I am living with Miss Nancy Lewis, one of the former counselors at W. C., and several other girls, in an adorable little house. I like Providence very much, but of course miss Greensboro and the College there."

Mary Palmer is teaching commercial subjects this year in St. Andrews Parish High School, Charleston, S. C. She resigned last August from her position with the Charleston POE. From Charleston she went to Tryon, N. C., for a visit, but did not stay long because of the polio epidemic in the state. She also visited classmates in Washington City and in Wilson during vacation. "I am always running into W. C. graduates—it's mighty nice."

Edithe Louise Poore is a chemist with the DuPont Company, Wilmington, Del.

Ruth Porter is teaching physical education in Flora Stone Mather College, Western Reserve University. She expects to be awarded an M.S. degree in Physical Education next June.

Serena Moore Riser is finishing up her pre-medical work this year at the University of South Carolina, Columbia. She lives at home and keeps house for her mother and father. She is taking part in the State Musical Festival, singing in the chorus, and giving some assistance with the office work. She is also helping with the work of the local Girl Scouts. Last summer Serena taught swimming in the YWCA, Baltimore.

Betsy Saunders teaches a fourth grade in the Dilworth School, Charlotte.

Martha Sawyer is teaching history in the LaGrange High School, and is also serving as the school librarian.

Gertrude Tanner has a secretarial position in the State Department of Agriculture, Raleigh.

1944

Nancy Andrews, stenographic work, Oak Ridge, Tenn.

Josephine Atkin, computer for N.A.-C.A., Langley Field, Va.

Marion S. Barber, assistant dietitian, Emory University Hospital. Marion accepted her position immediately after graduation in June.

Ann Battle, secretary to superintendent of city schools, New Bern.

Mary Douglas Baxley, head teacher in Nursery School, Morgan Mills, Laurel Hill.

Julia Bazemore, junior caseworker, Montrose School for Girls, Reisterstown, Md.

Elizabeth Beall, at home, Greensboro. Ann Betts, assistant teacher nursery school, Morgan Mills, Laurel Hill.

Katherine Bissell, ensign, USNR, Northampton, Mass.

Hazel (Bland) Austin, at home, Kelford. Her husband is an ensign in the Navy.

Janis Bolton, secretary to president of a bank in Lumberton. Janis writes that her present pastimes are reading, having fun at the USO, and helping out at Red Cross headquarters. "It's more restful than exciting, but I'm loving it all (including the work at the bank)."

Mollie Bowie, secretary, Bowie Motor Co., Monroeville.

Constance Bradley, private, Air WACS, Fort Oglethorpe, Ga.

Frances Bradley, teaching, fifth grade, Bethany High School, Reidsville.

Hettie Lou Bridges, eighth grade, Marshall.

Mary Anne Bristol, secretarial work, Oak Ridge, Tenn.

Becky Brockmann, laboratory technician, North Carolina Shipbuilding Company, Wilmington.

Edelweisse Brower, Jefferson Life Insurance Co., Greensboro.

Edna Brown, teaching, ninth and twelfth grades, Cannon High School, Kannapolis. She spends the week ends at her home in Granite Quarry.

Grace Brown, administrative staff, Meredith College.

Jean Brown, secretarial work, Raleigh. Jean vacationed at Atlantic Beach last summer, and started to work on August 1.

Ruth Brown, retail training, Rich's, Atlanta, Ga. Ruth began a training last July, expected to finish in February, and then be placed in a merchandising position, either personnel or management,

Chest Colds

Relieve Distress This Home-Proved Way

Now to help relieve congestion and irritation in upper bronchial tubes, muscular soreness or tightness, coughing spasms—most young mothers rub Vicks VapoRub on throat, chest and back at bedtime. And at once VapoRub into upper bronchial tubes with its special medicinal vapors

PENETRATES

STIMULATES

chest and back surfaces like a warming poultice.

So soothing, comforting... VapoRub invites restful sleep and keeps on working for hours to relieve distress. And...

ONLY VAPORUB Gives You this special penetrating-stimulating action. It's the best known home remedy for relieving miseries of children's colds. Try it!

VICKS VAPORUB

at Rich's — one of the largest department stores in the South.

Opal Brown, teaching home economics, Roxboro High.

Frances (Bryant) Husbard is in San Diego, Calif., with her husband, who is an ensign in the Naval Air Corps. She writes, "My husband is a Navy flyer. We live in a small but attractive house. I like domestic life, but am terribly disappointed in California — it's just desert with fog, and lots of sailors. We are both anxious for the war to be over, so that we can come home to North Carolina."

Dorothea Bultman, student of physical therapy at Harvard Medical School, Brookline, Mass. Dorothea vacationed last summer at Camp Hiawatha, Kezar Falls, Maine, and was a counselor in the trip department.

Anne Butler, secretarial work, Langley Field, Hampton, Va.

Ellen Butler worked on the headquarters staff of the Red Cross, Greensboro, until January, when she entered Columbia University to do graduate work.

Grace Butler, secretarial work in the personnel office, Langley Field, Hampton, Virginia.

Jewel (Butler) Lahser, at home, Winston-Salem. Her husband is a student at the Bowman Gray Medical School.

Caroline Cabell, teaching Spanish and French, Fayetteville High School.

Elizabeth Caldwell, home economics, Red Springs High School, and supervisor of student-teachers from Flora MacDonald College. Elizabeth returned to the campus after her graduation last June, and took graduate work in home economics during the summer session.

Florence (Caldwell) Touchstone is in Casper, Wyo., with her husband, who is an instructor in the camp there.

Mary Calvert, in the WAVES. She took her boot training in the Bronx, N. Y.

Cornelle Caraway, secretarial work, Tampa, Fla. Cornelle writes that she shares an apartment with Virginia Dunlap, a former one-year commercial at Woman's College, and that the two of them are having lots of fun doing their own cooking!

Mary Thomas Carswell, technician in microscope slide department, Carolina Biological Supply Company, Elon College.

Annie Mae Carter, first grade, Ardmore School, Winston-Salem. Annie worked at Reynolds Memorial Park, Winston-Salem, during the past summer.

Dorothy Chandler, vocational home economics, Weaverville High School.

Elvira Cheatham, counselor of Young Peoples Service League, Episcopal Church; doing Girl Scout work — leader of Brownie Troop; organizer of Parish School Kindergarten, Holy Innocents Episcopal Church, Henderson.

Jean Clements, X-ray technician, Henry Ford Hospital, Detroit, Mich.

Doris Cobb, secretary, General Electric Co., Long Island City, N. Y.

Ann Laura Cole, personnel work, Rich's Department Store, Atlanta, Ga.

Martha Cole, teaching home economics, Draper High School.

ALUMNAE IN THE ARMED FORCES

Jean Kay MacDonald '41BSSA, Norton, Va., arrived in Italy last fall to serve with the Armed Forces as a hospital recreation worker with the American Red Cross. After her graduation from college, Jean did secretarial work — first with the Federal Housing Administration, and later with the National Youth Administration, both in Washington, D. C.

Sgt. Marianna Pipkin '41BSHE, Greensboro, of the WAC, is now overseas in the Dutch East Indies, with the Army Signal Corps. Sgt. Pipkin joined the WAC in May, 1943. After receiving basic training, she was stationed for a while with the WAC detachment station complement, Camp Sutton. Later, she attended the school for specialists at Edgewood Arsenal, Md., taking training in chemical warfare. She was then sent to the Second WAC Training Center, Daytona Beach, Fla., as a member of the cadre, to teach defense against chemical warfare to basic trainees. Sgt. Pipkin has been overseas for several months, "living in an eight-man tent, with dirt floor, and of course surrounded by other somewhat primitive living conditions." She is happy in her work and proud to be able to make a contribution to this great war effort.

Sgt. Myrt Padgett '43BSM, WAC, is now stationed in Tampa, Fla., as chief clerk in the classification section of the Adjutant General's office of the Third Air Force Headquarters. Myrt enlisted in the WAC while still in college, and was called to active duty two weeks after her graduation. She had basic training at Fort Oglethorpe, Ga., and was assigned to the Adjutant General's office in Tampa. A few weeks ago she was promoted to her present post. Myrt studied voice for a time at the University of Tampa and sang in the Presbyterian Church there. But due to unsatisfactory facilities for practice, she had to give up voice lessons, but is still singing in the choir on the post. Myrt says she has done nothing spectacular in the WAC, but has contributed willingly and eagerly to the building of a great Army.

Ensign Juliana Hanks '44BSSA, Washington, D. C., joined the WAVES in June, 1944, and after receiving basic training, was commissioned an ensign, and sent to Cambridge, Mass., for further courses in the supply school located there. "We are working very hard, covering the same course in three months that the men take in four months at the Harvard Supply School. Eighty-four of us WAVES occupy one of Radcliffe's dormitories, and have a grand time together, even though the schedule is rigid. Right now we are all perched on the edges of our chairs in a state of acute suspense, wondering where our orders will take us from here. (By the way, did you know that our sleeves are decorated with pretty oak leaves instead of a star over the stripes?) Our free time is curtailed by a 7:45 p.m. curfew (except Saturday), and we have little opportunity to see Boston and other interesting places in the vicinity."

IT'S A

New Season

Our shop is a-bloom with new styles

*First of the 1945
creations*

a new dress, a new suit, a new coat to refresh your end-of-winter wardrobe,
to wear on into the months
of sunshine.

MONTALDO'S

Jos. J. Stone
& Company

Printers and Bookbinders

Everything for the Office

225 South Davie Street
Greensboro, N. C.

Lucy Corbett, foods technician, test kitchens, General Foods Corporation, New York City.

Eugenia (Cox) Pratt has been with her husband in Del Monte, Calif., living in the famous Del Monte Hotel, which has been taken over by the Navy for a school. Her husband is attending radio school and Eugenia is working at the base. "This is really an ideal set-up, and we consider ourselves very fortunate. Everything has been green and beautiful here—all winter—flowers, grass, green trees, everywhere. It is a great change from our winters in North Carolina. I do appreciate the Alumnae News very much."

Helen Cox, fifth grade, Goldsboro. Helen spent last summer at home, except for several trips to the beach and a visit to some of her college friends.

Mary Ada Cox, in the WAVES. She joined the Navy last October and expected to be commissioned the latter part of December.

Julia Current, home economics, Fair Grove High School, Thomasville.

Sarah Curtis, vocational home economics, Glen Alpine.

Nancy B. Davis, director of health and physical education, Washington State Normal School, Machias, Maine. Nancy spent last summer as a counselor at Camp Accomac, Hillside, Maine, and also attended the University of Maine, taking graduate work.

Jane Dorrell, teaching fifth grade, Lakewood, N. Y.

Betty Dorton, secretary, OPA Food Division, Charlotte. Betty writes: "Like my job fine. Great thing—this independent feeling! Still going to USO dances. Miss dear ole W. C., but kinda glad I've finished my schooling!"

Mary Lee Dysart, secretary, New York City.

Pamela (Earlie) Bean, Aircraft (N.A.S.), Jacksonville Beach, Fla. During the summer Pam worked at Bell Aircraft Corporation in Marietta, Ga., as an inspector.

Mary Virginia Edwards, Navy inspector, National Carbon Co., Winston-Salem.

Stella May Efland, chemist, Beacon, N. Y.

Annabel Embrey, translator-secretary, Export Department of General Electric X-ray Corporation, Chicago. Annabel writes that she is in training at General Electric as an assistant to a commercial contact man and expects to be sent to Lima, Peru, in the near future. She is also taking a Spanish conversation course at Northwestern University.

Mary Helen Emerson, physical education, Sophie Newcombe College, New Orleans, La.

Callie Farrell, home economics and biology, Siler City High School.

Josephine Farthing, computer at N.A.-C.A., Langley Field, Hampton, Va.

Christine Faulk, kindergarten, Raleigh. Frances Faulkner, mathematics, grades 9, 10, 11, Kinston High School. Frances spent the greater part of last summer coaching students in mathematics for re-examinations and for credits to enter prep schools and colleges.

Ruth Ferguson, assistant director of the High Point-Greensboro Dairy Council, Greensboro. She commenced work soon after graduation, "and the whole summer was like a vacation, I did so much traveling."

Louise Few, bookkeeper, State Trust Co., Hendersonville.

Judith Flandreau, serving internship in dietetics, Presbyterian Hospital, New York City.

Dorothy Flowers, first grade, Anderson Creek School, Bunnlevel.

Cherry Folger, engineering draftsman, TVA, Chattanooga, Tenn.

Mary Blanche Freeman, third grade, High Point.

Sara Fulton, eighth grade, Gray High School, Winston-Salem.

Mary Agnes Graham, secretary, Extension Department, N. C. State College, Raleigh.

Mary Grandy, Signal Corps, War Department, Arlington, Va.

Sue Hall, library assistant, Greensboro Public Library, Greensboro.

Betty Hallagan, home economics, New Hanover High, Wilmington.

Barbara (Hand) Hardie, chemistry, biology, and general science, Chadbourn High School. Her husband is in the Navy, somewhere in South America.

Evelyn Hansen, teaching English, Humacao High School, Central Ejemplo, Humacao, Puerto Rico. Evelyn vacationed at home in Puerto Rico last summer. This winter she is very busy. She teaches six periods daily, having 211 different pupils. Besides this, she is adviser to the senior class, and is the only Continental American on the High School faculty. She was also very active in putting over the Halloween Benefit Dance. Evelyn has joined the Puerto Rico Chapter of N.S.O.A.R., and the Juanita Chapter No. 1 of O.E.S. And as one of her friends writes: "Evelyn is also not a girl to stay quietly at home when there is a wonderful clubhouse up on a hill not too far away, with many young officers always around!"

Grace Hardee, teaching physical education, seventh and twelfth grades, Harding High School, Charlotte.

Ida Harper, secretary, Arlington, Va. Ida writes: "I'm living with Betty Snider, Betty Howard Morrison, and Irma Siciloff—all '44's. Having fun, but miss all of you at the college."

Margie Harrell, vocational home economics, Ahoskie High School.

Grace Haynes, home economics, Durham High School, Durham. "We have a lovely new cottage for our work, located between the senior and junior high school buildings, and my students come from both. I am living with Linda Lyon."

Ann Henning, in the WAVES. She had basic training at Smith College, Northampton, Mass.

Eva Higdon, manager and assistant dietitian, Service Club No. 1, Camp Davis.

Helen Hilderman, research assistant in tobacco research, Bowman Gray School of Medicine, Winston-Salem.

Ruth Hill, teaching commercial subjects, Micro High School.

Annie Lanier Holmes, Greenwich, Conn. Annie is enjoying her work as a chemist in the Research Plastic Laboratory of American Cyanamid Company, Stamford, Conn. "Being so near New York City is an added attraction."

Mary Louise Holmes, secretary, NACA, Langley Field, Va.

Rosalie Holmes, typist, Oak Ridge, Tenn.

Margaret (Honeycutt) Dawson, at home, Monmouth Beach, N. J. Her husband is a lieutenant with the Signal Corps.

Janice (Hooke) Moore, housekeeping, Fort Lauderdale, Florida. Her husband is in the Navy.

Betty (Hornaday) Schenk, housekeeping, Gastonia.

Nancy Jackson, fourth grade, Calvin H. Wiley School, Winston-Salem.

Mary Elizabeth (James) Hardin, nursery school, Winston-Salem.

Betty Louise Johnson, student dietitian, Lawson General Hospital, Atlanta, Ga. When her training has been completed, Betty Louise plans to join the Army as a hospital dietitian.

Edna Anne (Johnston) Lamson, teaching art, Central Junior High, Greensboro. Her husband is with the Army, overseas.

Anna Jordan, sixth grade, Carolina Beach. Anna writes: "Last summer I lived at home at the beach and worked with the Department of Recreation, City of Wilmington. At present I am trying to hold down two full-time jobs — teaching and directing recreation at the Lake Forest Community Building. Both are lots of fun and I am really having a fine time — but am a little rushed at times!"

Jeann Jorgenson, office of war information, San Francisco, Calif.

De Lon Kearney, teaching high school English, Wilmington.

Frances Keel, third grade, Goldsboro. "Teaching certainly does keep you moving. I spend my time trying to keep one jump ahead of the children! Really, though, I'm enjoying it thoroughly."

Betsy King, secretary, Bowman Gray School of Medicine, Winston-Salem.

Mildred King, fourth grade, Goldsboro schools.

Mary Moling Kirkman, director of Wesley foundation, Alabama Polytechnic Institute, Auburn, Ala. The Auburn paper carried an excellent story about Mary Moling's work, with her picture, saying among other complimentary things, that "she is rapidly bringing down the cobwebs that have blurred activities at the foundation since the last director was assigned to a church as a minister." Last summer Mary Moling did graduate work at the School of Theology, Emory University. Early in the fall she attended the National Methodist Youth Conference, held at Lake Geneva, Wis., where she served as a member of the program committee for convocation and assisted in planning the national student program for this year.

Mary Elizabeth Kirschner, working in father's dental office, York, Pa. Mary Elizabeth spent the summer in Mexico studying at the University of Mexico.

Carolyn Knott, home economics, Littleton High School. Carolyn enjoys her work very much, but teaching is much different from being in college, she thinks.

Sara Ruth Knox, home economics, Guilford High School, Greensboro. Last summer Sara Ruth worked in an analytical chemistry laboratory, Edgewood Arsenal, Md.

Lucille Kugler, chemist, Kinetic Chemicals, E. I. duPont de Nemours and Company, Deepwater Point, N. J.

Carmele Lambeth, history in grades 10, 11, 12, Altamahaw High School, Elon College.

Louise (Lazarus) Frankel is living in Quantico, Va. Her husband is stationed there with the Marines.

Carolyn Lehman, first and second grades, Guilford Public School, Raleigh. During the summer, Carolyn spent a month at "Lapibio," a Girl Scout camp, where she was a unit leader. "After that I stayed at home making preparation for the school year."

Christine Lentz is now in Washington City.

Marie Lewis, vocational home economics, Kinston High School.

Vivian Paige Lohr wrote from her home in Lexington.

Carolyn Lore, secretary in personnel department (WRA), Washington, D. C. "I love it!"

Ether Lutterloh, director of Christian Education, Steele Street Methodist Church, Sanford. "I like my work very much and find that many other girls with whom I went to school at Woman's College are working in and around Sanford. My work is mainly with the children from cradle roll on up through teen-age, but I assist with all other church activities."

Linda Lyon, semi-executive in Trust Department of Durham Bank and Trust Co., Durham. "See quite a few Woman's College girls here from time to time."

Anne (McBride) Park, at home, Wayne, Pa. Her husband is in the U. S. Army Air Corps.

Beth McDonald, home economics, Sanford High School.

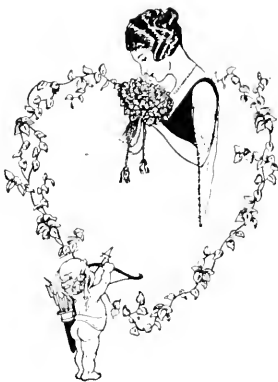

Kathryn (McGowan) Wyrick, business subjects, Presbyterian Junior College, Maxton, and Pembroke State College, Pembroke. Kathryn writes that she is carrying two teaching jobs, spending three days at one place and three days at the other. At the Junior College she teaches typing to a Spanish student who does not understand or speak English! "I was saved by the Spanish courses I took at Woman's College, thus finding a practical use for the subject in which I minored. At Pembroke College, my work is with Indians exclusively."

Harleston McIntosh, home economics, Morganton High.

Julia McNeely, secretary to the superintendent, Lowrance Hospital, Mooresville.

Euzelia McSwain, home economics, ninth and tenth grades, Kings Mountain High School.

Willie Upchurch, laboratory assistant in chemistry department, W. C. U. N. C., Greensboro. Willie assisted in this department during the summer school session, last summer, afterwards going home "to cook, and keep the clothes pins damp!"

MARRIED

Alice Sawyer '15 to Hal Brady Cooper, December 16, Richmond, Va. At home Tonawanda, N. Y.

Gertrude (Shepard) Smith '25 to Col. William Blecker Rosevear, second in command at ORD, Greensboro, November 18, at the bride's home, Greensboro. Colonel Rosevear is a graduate of the United States Military Academy, and served in the regular Army as a reserve officer. In the last war he served in France as a major in field artillery, and was called to duty again at the beginning of the present war. Colonel Rosevear was one of the organizers of the Reserve Officers' association of the United States, was national membership chairman, and in 1937-38 national president. He had a brokerage office in Detroit, Mich. At home Greensboro.

Mary Doris Shuler '33 to Sgt. George B. Lester, December 22, Duncan Chapel Methodist Church, Bowman, S. C. Sergeant Lester is a graduate of Newberry College, and did graduate work at the University of North Carolina, Chapel Hill.

CHARLES

Greensboro's Fastest Growing
Department Store

FRIENDLY SERVICE
QUALITY MERCHANDISE
FAIR PRICES

We invite your patronage

AT WASHINGTON SQUARE
GREENSBORO, N. C.

COMPLIMENTS

OF

WILLS

BOOK & STATIONERY CO.

107 S. GREENE STREET

PHONE 2-0175

BROOKS-WILSON CO.

119 S. Greene Street

A small shop well worth remembering.The distinctive styling and beauty that appeals to the Junior Miss.

DRESSES. COATS. MILLINERY.

ATTENTION!

March! Step Ahead!

IT'S HIGH TIME

TO GET IN LINE

LOOK!

THE SIXTH WAR LOAN SIGN
SAYS*"Today is the Day to Buy War Bonds"*

Odell Hardware Co.

1010 Scott Avenue

GIFT BOOKS
STATIONERY
GREETING CARDS
LEATHER GOODS

THE BOOK SHOP

Mrs. Charles A. Farrell, Manager
115 South Greene Street

COMPLIMENTS

OF

Ellis Stone & Co.The South's Finest Store

South Elm Street

GREENSBORO, N. C.

He taught in the schools of South and North Carolina before entering the Army. He is now stationed at Fort Bragg.

Lucy Rose Linn '35 to Capt. Samuel Ethelbert Stewart, U. S. Army, December 13, St. John's Lutheran Church, Salisbury. Captain Stewart is a graduate of the University of Chicago, where he was a member of Alpha Delta Phi Fraternity. He is now serving as a hotel administration officer at the ground and service forces' redistribution station, Miami Beach, Fla. At home there.

Altha I. Culberson '34 to S/Sgt. Clem Alson Wright, USMC, December 11, Cane Creek Friends Church, Liberty. The bridegroom attended the University of North Carolina, Chapel Hill, and previous to entering the Marine Corps was associated in business with the M. G. Newell Company, Greensboro. He is now stationed at the Navy Yard, Charleston, S. C. The bride is home demonstration agent in Caldwell County, and is continuing her duties there, with headquarters at Lenoir.

Carmen Austin '36 to James Hogan, September 19, 1944, Four Oaks. At home Wingate.

Louise George '36 to Capt. George Touhy, U. S. Army, July 15, 1944, Shandon Presbyterian Church, Columbia, S. C. Captain Touhy was honorably discharged from the Army last August, and is now connected with Holler Motor Co., Sanford, Fla. At home there.

Miriam McFadyen '36 to B. Scott Kalitz, October 20, Second Presbyterian Church, Charlotte. Mr. Kalitz is a graduate of Temple University, and is now associated with the commercial department of a radio station in Charlotte. At home there.

Frances Jordan Tate '36 to Robert Lincoln Blair, Army of the United States, October 21, Cambridge, Mass. At home Cambridge.

Minnie Muriel Bailey '38 to Warrant Officer M. H. Mann, November 2, San Diego, Calif. The bridegroom is an alumnus of Columbia University. He is now stationed at the Marine Corps Air Station, Mojave, Calif. At home San Diego.

Julia Taylor Lovelace '38 to Capt. Perry Earle Lee Jr., U. S. Army, July 8, 1944, Post Chapel, Ft. Knox, Ky. Captain Lee is a graduate of Clemson College, and was associated with C. C. Hartmann, architect, Greensboro, before joining the Army. At home Greenville, S. C.

Ruth Whalin '38 to Capt. Arthur Owen Cooke, September 18, Columbia, S. C. Captain Cooke is a graduate of Davidson College and was also graduated from the law school of the University of North Carolina, Chapel Hill. Before called to active duty, he was associated with the law firm of Smith, Wharton and Jordan in Greensboro. Captain Cooke is now serving in the Pacific War Theatre. The bride is making her home in Greensboro.

Marguerite Elizabeth George '39 to S 1/2 Fred Thomas Johnson, U. S. Navy, November 11, home of the bride's parents. The bridegroom is stationed at the U. S. Naval Amphibious Training Base, Solomons, Md. The bride is program and social secretary of the Young Women's Christian Association, Durham.

Marjorie Pye '39 to Maj. Bascom Bogle, U. S. Army Medical Corps, January 6, Hunter Field Chapel, Ga. Major Bogle is a graduate of the University of Illinois, and of Tufts Medical College, and interned at St. Luke's Hospital, New Bedford, Conn. He is a member of Delta Upsilon Fraternity. Major Bogle is now stationed at Hunter Field, as flight surgeon for the regional hospital. At home there.

Elizabeth Dearing Davidson '40 to Harris Morehead Nelson Jr., October 7, home of the bride's parents, Leaksville, Mr. Nelson is an alumnus of Woodberry Forest School, and of State College, Raleigh. He is associated in business with Morehead Cotton Mill Company. At home Spray.

Patsy Jones '40 to Lt. Carl Eugene Buffington, December 9, Holy Trinity Episcopal Church, Greensboro, Frances (Jones) Ernst '35 and Hortense Jones '37 were their sister's only attendants. Lieutenant Buffington is a graduate of William and Mary College, where he was president of the men's student government, and where he returned for a year of graduate study on a fellowship. He belongs to Kappa Alpha Fraternity. He is now stationed at ORD, Greensboro, as assistant classification officer. At home Greensboro.

Sue Bishop '41 to Capt. Thomas J. Collins, U. S. Army Air Force, July 19, Maxwell Field, Montgomery, Ala. Captain Collins is an alumnus of Notre Dame University. He is now stationed at Tuskegee, Ala. At home there.

Annie Arrington Braswell '41 to William Mercer Rowe Jr., November 11, First Methodist Church, Rocky Mount. Mr. Rowe is an alumnus of Hargrave Military School, and of Wake Forest College. He is now connected with the Pennsylvania Salt Manufacturing Company, West Palm Beach, Fla. At home there.

Eleanor Cox '41 to Charles Sanford Lee, October 12, Grace Methodist Church, Greensboro. Nancy Dixon King '42 furnished the wedding music. Mr. Lee is a graduate of Emory University, and a member of Sigma Alpha Epsilon Fraternity. He is now located in Greensboro with Eastern Airlines, as assistant chief agent. At home Greensboro.

Virginia Roth '41 to John Raymond Cooper Jr., Army of the United States, December 4, New Haven, Conn. The bridegroom is a graduate of the University of North Carolina, Chapel Hill.

Platoon Sgt. Eleanor Wade '41, of the Marines, to Cpl. William L. Sonnenschein, in December, 1944, Camp Lejeune, N. C. The bridegroom is a native of New York City, and a veteran of twenty months recent overseas duty. Cpl. Sonnenschein is combat swimming instructor at Camp Lejeune.

Ruth Wilson '41 to Max C. Jackson, March 22, 1944, First Baptist Church, Knoxville, Tenn. The bridegroom is an alumnus of the University of Alabama, where he was a member of the varsity football team. He is now a sanitary engineer with TVA, Rockwood, Tenn. At home there.

Martha Parks Dotson '42 to Flight Officer Vance Willard Kennerly, September 20, First Presbyterian Church, States-

When Spring Comes to Front Campus

ville. Margaret Willis Alexander '42 was the bride's maid of honor. Mr. Kennerly, a flight officer in the glider corps of the Army, is now stationed at Laurinburg-Maxton Air Base. The bride is teaching in the Cool Spring School, Statesville.

Helen Gibbons '42 to Lt. (j.g.) Henry Burgwyn, U. S. Naval Reserve, December 12. Methodist Church, Rich Square. Lt. Burgwyn is a graduate of the University of North Carolina, Chapel Hill. He has had Atlantic sea duty, and is now stationed at Norfolk, Va. At home there.

Leona Marie Myers '42 to Lt. Roscoe Whitaker Franck, November 6. Centenary Methodist Church, Winston-Salem. Lieutenant Franck is a graduate of State College, Raleigh. Prior to entering the Armed Services, he was employed by the Maritime Commission in Washington, D. C. He is now stationed at Randolph Field, Texas. At home San Antonio, Texas.

Hazel Storey '42 to Lloyd J. Fisher Jr., September 12. Hampton Presbyterian Church, Hampton, Va. Mr. Fisher is an alumnus of the Georgia School of Technology. He is now with the National Advisory Committee for Aeronautics, Hampton. At home there.

Margaret Wallace '42 to Harry Vincent Ayres, September 9, Newark, N. J. The bridegroom is with the Army Ordnance in Philadelphia. He has a medical discharge from the National Guard. He is an alumnus of Washington and Lee University. At home Drexel Hill, Pa.

Jacksie Lou Walser '42 to Lt. Scott Burgett Coley, U. S. Army Air Force, September 17. St. Thomas Episcopal Church, Thomasville, Ga. Lieutenant Coley was associated in business with the Ford Instrument Company, Long Island City, N. Y., before entering the service. He is now stationed in Mt. Clemens, Mich. At home there.

Betty LaVerne Kahlin '43 to Edward Barrett Colby, June 17. McKeesport, Pa. Mr. Colby is a graduate of the School of Commerce, University of North Carolina, Chapel Hill. He is now connected with the Sylvania Electric Products Corporation, Inc., Ipswich, Mass. At home Manchester, Mass.

Cora Margaret Hamrick '43 to Thomas Alexander Kerr, October 23, Little Church Around the Corner, New York City. The bridegroom is a graduate of the Georgia School of Technology, where he was a member of the American Institute of Electrical Engineers and of the Institute of Radio Engineers. He is associated with the

For the best follow the college girls to their favorite spot

THE GRILL

407 Tate St.

Phones 7306-9465

Fred Showfety

Joe Showfety

PHIL R. CARLTON, Inc.

Real Estate Rents Bonding

INSURANCE

Carlton Building, Opposite Courthouse

Dial 8157

Shop at Sears and Save
Sears Roebuck & Co.

E. A. WOODELL

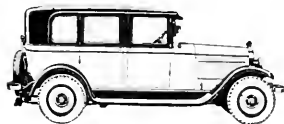

Service Printer

Successor to "Kendall"

221 East Sycamore St. Greensboro, N. C.

Compliments of

F. W. Woolworth Co.

DIAL 5161

YELLOW TAXI CO.

1 passenger in City, 35c; 2 to 5 passengers, 50c.

24 Hour Service Since 1924

New Equipment Experienced Drivers

SILLS IS THE WORD FOR SHOES IN GREENSBORO

ROBT. A. SILLS Co.
BEAUTIFUL FOOTWEAR
104 NORTH ELM STREET

BLUE BIRD TAXI

1 passenger, 35c; 2 to 5 passengers, 50c.
25c each stop for not more than 5 minutes' duration.

Anywhere in the City Limits

DIAL

5 1 1 2

BAGGAGE TRANSFER

The Columbia Laundry

Launderers and Dry Cleaners

Battleground Ave. at Cedar St.

SILVER'S

5-10 and $1.00 Store

College Girls

always welcome at Silver's

GREETINGS

MANUEL'S RESTAURANT

"We Serve the Very Best"

Special attention to college always

General Electric Company, Bridgeport, Conn. At home there.

Beatrice Darden '43 to Lt. Jesse Ernest Trevathan Jr., U. S. Army Air Force, December 21, Fayetteville. Lieutenant Trevathan was a student at the University of North Carolina, Chapel Hill, before entering the Army. He has recently returned to the United States after 16 months in the China-Burma-India War Theater. He has been awarded the Distinguished Flying Cross, the Air Medal, and a Presidential Unit Citation.

Charlotte Mae Ladner '43 to Lt. Milton S. Langley, USMC, November 4, St. Paul's Methodist Church, Paulsboro, N. J. Louise Whitehurst '43 was a bridesmaid.

Addie Liebig '43 to Sgt. Garex Nicony Jr., October 7. Sgt. Nicony is now stationed in North Carolina. The bride is teaching in an elementary school in Montclair, N. J.

Eugenia Lore '43 to George Allie Moore Jr., USNR, October 14, First Presbyterian Church, Smithfield. Carolyn Lore '44 was her sister's maid of honor. Mr. Moore is an alumnus of Lees-McRae College. He has just returned from two years of duty in the south Pacific.

Gladys Sessoms '43 to Ens. William Edward Elmore, October 29, Highland Presbyterian Church, Fayetteville. Ensign Elmore is a graduate of the University of North Carolina, Chapel Hill, where he was a member of Phi Gamma Delta Fraternity and of the Monogram Club and captain of the swimming team. He is now stationed at Key West, Fla. At home there.

Margaret Ridley Stephenson '43 to Augustus Alexander McLean Jr., September 30, Roberts Baptist Chapel, Pendleton. Ruth (Cash) Maynard '43, Rachel Long '43, Ann Spivey '43 and Menefee Bennett '43 were bridesmaids. The bridegroom is a graduate of Davidson College, and is a member of Phi Delta Theta Fraternity. At present he is a senior at the Medical College of Virginia and a member of Phi Chi Fraternity. At home Richmond.

Merle Swaim '43 to Lt. Alfred Horton Corry, U. S. Army Air Force, November 8, Army Air Force Convalescent Center, Pawling, N. Y. Lieutenant Corry is an alumnus of Syracuse University. He served in England for 13 months as a bombardier, completing 72 missions in the European theater of operations. In high recognition of his services, he has received the Distinguished Flying Cross, the Purple Heart, the Air Medal, and 12 Oak Leaf Clusters. Lieutenant Corry is now attached to the Pawling Convalescent Center as liaison officer. At home there.

Lydia Lea Bailey '44 to Lt. William Raymond Taylor Jr., U. S. Army, December 16, home of the bride's parents, Greensboro. Lieutenant Taylor went into the Army from his junior year at the University of North Carolina, Chapel Hill. He had basic training with the Army Air Force at Keesler Field, Miss., and radio training at Scott Field, Ill.; then began training as a communications cadet at San Antonio, Texas, entering Yale University last July as an Army communications cadet. He is now located at Boca Raton, Fla. At home there.

Betty Hornaday '44 to Otto Charles Schenk, October 21, Grace Methodist Church, Greensboro. Sue Hall '44 and Mary Elizabeth (Doggett) Baman '44 were attendants. The bridegroom is an alumnus of Guilford College and Davidson College and belongs to Phi Gamma Delta Fraternity. He is now a methods engineer for Burlington Mills Corporation, Gastonia. At home there.

Betty Green Johnson '44 to Lt. (j.g.) Charles Wall Check, U. S. Navy, December 28, Buies Creek Baptist Church, Litchington. Lieutenant Check is a graduate of Wake Forest College, and has just returned from 15 months duty in the South Pacific. At home temporarily in San Francisco, Calif.

Chase Johnson '44 to James Edward Duffly, October 26, St. Stephen's Episcopal Church, Goldsboro. Toni (Lupton) Hires '44 was matron of honor. The bridegroom is a graduate of the University of North Carolina, Chapel Hill, where he is now doing graduate work in Spanish. At home Chapel Hill.

Edna Anne Johnston '44 to Pfc. Ralph William Lamson, U. S. Army, September 28, West Asheville Methodist Church, Asheville. The bridegroom is a graduate of State College, Raleigh, and was doing graduate work in civil engineering there when he went into the Army. The bride is teaching at Central Junior High School, Greensboro, while the bridegroom is overseas.

Louise Lazarus '44 to Lt. Ernest Frankel, USMCR, October 21, Wardman-Park Hotel, Washington, D. C. Dorothy Stewart '44 furnished the wedding music. Lieutenant Frankel is a graduate of the University of North Carolina, Chapel Hill, where he was president of his fraternity, Tau Epsilon Phi, a member of the University Club, officer of the publications union board, and managing editor of the Daily Tar Heel. He is now stationed at Quantico, Va. At home there.

Leslie McNeill '44 to Seaman William Earl Wilkins, November 28, 1944, Methodist Church, Lumberton. The bridegroom is a graduate of Darlington School for Boys, and attended State College, Raleigh.

Allison Rice '44 to Ens. Donald Smith Willard, U. S. Navy, October 28, Presbyterian Church, Upper Montclair, N. J. Ensign Willard is an alumnus of the University of North Carolina, Chapel Hill. He is now stationed at the Supply Corps School, Harvard University. At home Cambridge, Mass.

Nancy Taylor '44 to Pfc. C. C. Bost III, USMCR, December 13, First Methodist Church, Salisbury. The bridegroom is an alumnus of Lenoir-Rhyne College, and of the University of North Carolina, Chapel Hill. He has had overseas duty off Trinidad and Newfoundland, and also took part in the invasion of Southern France. The bride is teaching in the primary grades at Mocksville.

Ethel Sue Boaz '45 to Aviation Cadet Harry Kent Swanson Jr., October 23, Centenary Methodist Church, Winston-Salem. The bridegroom is an alumnus of Wake Forest College. The bride has resumed her studies at Woman's College, where she is a member of the senior class.

Jane Eller '45 to Tech. Sgt. Ralph Lesley Byrd, U. S. Marine Corps., November 15, Asheboro Street Baptist Church, Greensboro. Sergeant Byrd is now stationed at Camp Miramar, Calif., and Jane has resumed her studies at Woman's College, where she expects to graduate in June.

Rosemary Holland '45 to Capt. Ralph Louis Dupps, October 21, Charlotte. At home Charlotte, where Captain Dupps is stationed at Morris Field.

Alice Betty Mauney '45 to Lt. Richard Maynard Snow, U. S. Army Air Force, November 12, First Presbyterian Church, Kings Mountain. Lieutenant Snow has served for 18 months in the Pacific War Theatre as a fighter pilot, but for some time has been stationed at the Canal Zone, Panama. The bride is completing her work at Woman's College, where she is a member of the senior class.

NECROLOGY

CLASS OF 1922

Myrtle Warren died at her home in Gastonia on September 28, 1944, after having been ill for twelve years. She was a sweet singer, and is remembered on the campus for a lovely voice and the generous use she made of it, and her happy disposition. For a short while after her graduation from college, Myrtle taught in the music department of the State School for the Blind, Raleigh. From here she returned to her home in Gastonia, where she was supervisor of music in the elementary schools for a number of years previous to the beginning of her illness. To her sister, Lottie, our special sympathy is extended.

CLASS OF 1942

Carol Boyd, Belhaven, was instantly killed on Friday, October 20, 1944, when her car left the highway and crashed into a parked truck near Fredericksburg, Va. She was on her way from Arlington, Va., to spend the week end with her parents in Belhaven, when the accident occurred. For fifteen months previous to her death, Carol was employed by the War Department, at Arlington. The first year after her graduation from College, she taught in the Winston-Salem city schools.

We Extend Deepest Sympathy:

To Bertha (Sugg) McCullen '01, in the death of her husband in April, 1944, at his home in Faison, after an illness of five and a half years.

To Pearl Wyche '03, Alice (Poole) Adams '17, Sarah (Poole) Cartland '21, and Mary (Poole) Holmes, class of 1924, in the sudden death of their sister and mother, November 1, 1944, at her home in Greensboro.

To Ethnie (Garrett) Heine '14, Flora (Garrett) Sharpe '17, and Virgie (Garrett) Beck, class of 1925, in the death of their father, November 10, 1944, at his home in Burlington.

To Daisy Boyd '18, Bessie Boyd '19, and Harriet (Boyd) Webster '20, in the death of their mother, December 10, 1944, at her home in Waynesville. Also in the death of their nephew, a first lieutenant in the Army, who was killed in action in the German War Theatre, on November 2.

To Margaret (Hunter) Stout, class of 1921, and Carolyn M. Stout '44, in the death of their husband and father, which occurred December 11, 1944, at St. Anthony Hospital, St. Petersburg, Fla., where he had gone from his home in Greensboro, in the interest of his health.

To Katherine (Shenk) Mauney '28, in the death of her father, Rev. E. A. Shenk, November 14, 1944, Kings Mountain. Before going to Kings Mountain two or three years ago to live near his daughter, Mr. Shenk made his home on McIver Street, near Woman's College, and was a well-known figure to many of the faculty and students. He was minister of the Lutheran Church in Greensboro for many years.

To Frances (Henning) Croom '42 and Ann Henning '44, in the death of their brother, Major R. T. Henning, who was killed in the line of duty on November 19, in India. He had been on active duty in the India War Theatre for 27 months, first as a combat bomber pilot, later as commander of a Liberator bomber squadron, and more recently as operations officer of a squadron. He had been awarded the Distinguished Flying Cross, with one Oak Leaf Cluster, the Air Medal, with two Oak Leaf Clusters, and was posthumously awarded the Silver Star for "gallantry and leadership" in action.

To Elizabeth (Bendigo) Ratliff '43, in the death of her mother, November 13, St. Leo's Hospital, Greensboro.

To Harriet Kupferer '43 in the death of her father, suddenly, in Asheville, in the late spring of 1944.

Greensboro NEHI Bottling Co.

825 Battleground Ave.

Phone 9524

VICTORY

•
"We Bring
the Big Ones Back"

THEATRE

The Merca

"Greensboro's Most Popular"

RESTAURANT

228 West Market Street

COMPLIMENTS OF GREENSBORO BOWLING CENTER

We welcome the faculty and student body

Phone 8046

341 North Elm St.

for
Smart Styles

VISIT OUR

JUNIORETTE
JUNIOR
SHOP

SECOND FLOOR

BELK'S

Serve the Ice Cream that for years has had the acceptance of Southern people — Southern Dairies Sealtest Ice Cream — the discriminating hostess is always well pleased.

GREENSBORO, N. C.

PHONE 2-1125

COLLEGE FASHIONS OF

Excellent Quality and Style at Moderate Prices

Visit our Mezzanine Floor often for up to the minute fashions as they arrive from the Fashion Centers of the United States

Montgomery Ward

Protect Your Paint

—and your best insurance is

DEVOE PAINTS

Featuring the
2-COAT SYSTEM

This Devoe 2-Coat System doesn't try to saddle or shirk. There are two definite jobs for outside paint to do, and Devoe does them. Each coat does its specific work. The first coat locks the pores of the wood like iron, seals it against sucking up life-giving oils. The second coat is built to laugh off ultra-violet sun rays and weather, still sparkles after several years.

PAINTS FOR EVERY PURPOSE

KEARNS PAINT CO., Inc.

Greensboro, N. C.

112 N. Greene St.—Phone 4171

SPORTING GOODS

WALLPAPER

Flatter Your Legs!!

Be Nice to Your Budget with

MOJUD

The Dependable Hosiery!

Sheer . . . Clear . . . a flawless veil of smart new color. Dear? . . . goodness, no! Mojuds look fragile, but they last and last. They're an investment in chic you ought to make. The newest colors are in now.

Mock, Judson, Voehringer Co.

GREENSBORO, N. C.

CHICAGO, ILL.

DECATUR, ALA.

NEW YORK CITY
SAN FRANCISCO, CAL.